ROYALIST PLOT TO ELECT AN EMPEROR IN FRANCEEighty Members of Chamber of Deputies Have Been BribedPLAN IS ONE MADE BY PRINCE LOUIS NAPOLEONTo Have President Elected by People and Trust to a National Upheaval

(By MARQUIS de CASTELLANE.)

PARIS, Aug. 14.—If what I am told is true, and I have no reason to doubt my informant, some eighty members of the Chamber of Deputies have received large sums of money from Prince Victor Napoleon for having undertaken to put an immediate revision of the constitution as a plank in their next electoral platform. The plank will provide that the presidential election be made by an assembly named for this purpose by the whole French people—in other words, a popular election. As the constitution stands, the President of France is elected by Chamber of Deputies and the Senate combined. But with a changed constitution Prince Victor might be elected President as was Napoleon the third, in 1848. Following this, as in Napoleon's case, a coup d'état, or another election would make him emperor.

The prince counts upon the prestige of his name to win a presidential victory and is encouraged by the obvious discontent of workingmen, clergy and nobility.

Prince Victor is the grandson of Jerome Bonaparte, brother of Napoleon the first, and King of Westphalia the same Bonaparte who married Miss Patterson of Baltimore. Strictly speaking the real Napoleon's pretender to the throne of France should be Charles Bonaparte who was secretary of the navy in President Roosevelt's cabinet. But here is something curious—Prince Victor, who lives in Brussels, is anything but rich.

Source of the Funds

Where then does the money come from? There are two truthful sources. The first is the ex-empress Eugenie, widow of Napoleon the third, the second is made up of wealthy French emigrants who hold that the republic has failed to reconcile liberty with order since the proud empress lost her son, the late Prince Imperial, her faded eyes have rested fondly upon the cynical Prince Victor. And, as she is very wealthy she can well afford to give generously towards a Napoleonic movement.

In the hope of securing more money for the cause, Prince Victor tried last year to marry Princess Clementine, daughter of King Leopold of Belgium, the richest monarch in Europe. But King Leopold does not give dowries to his daughters. Moreover he maintains a morganatic wife in France and likes to live in peace with his powerful neighbor.

Andre De Fourqueres, the journalist, playwright and poet who as I told you last week is the leader of the cottagers, has undertaken the function of major domo at Mont Plaisir, the palatial home of Mrs. Hughes-Hallatt. Mont Plaisir is in Dinard, one of the most fashionable watering places in France. Leo the tent was not a greater patron of art and literature than is Mrs. Hughes-Hallatt of the light fantastic toe. This venerable lady, who was formerly Miss Emily Schauberg of Philadelphia, is never more in her element than when dancing a cotillion. Hence Andre De Fourqueres has become her idol. It is he who makes out her lists of guests. And once a guest is admitted to the "Queen's" table he is always welcome. He can come as often as he pleases, merely observing the formality of notifying the butler.

Octogenarian Beauty

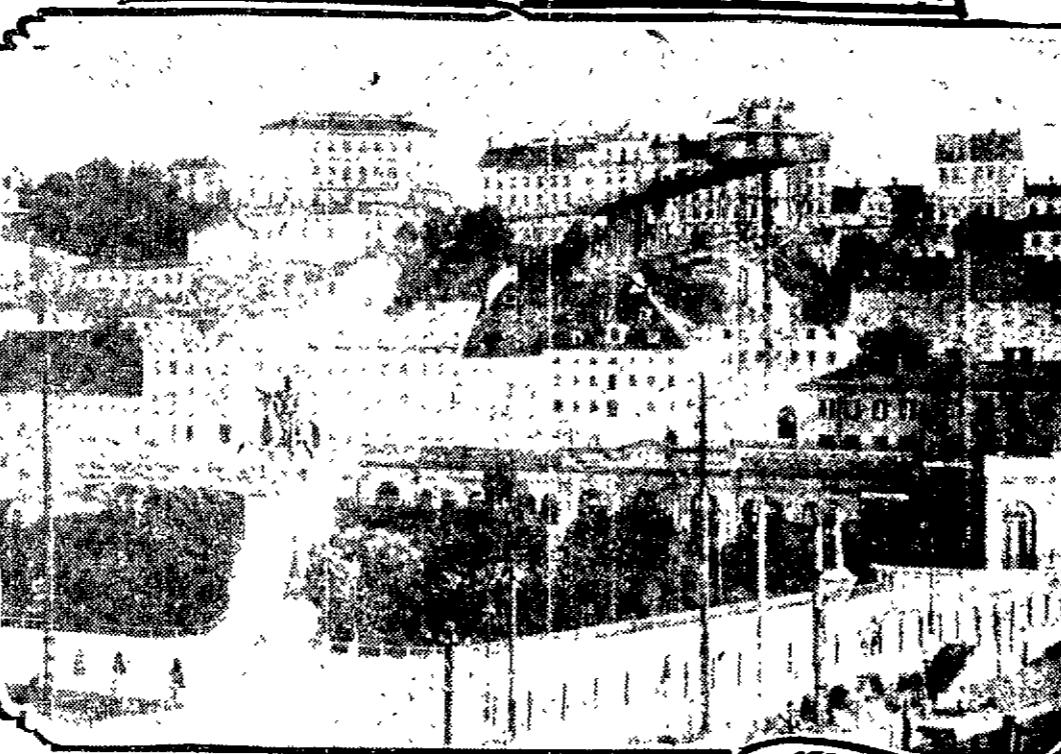

A great many young people, lunch, dine at the expense of this bountiful American lady. But one condition is indispensable. It is that they dance. They form an exclusive little world of their own and I assure you it is the gayest of the gay. The "Queen of Dinard," as the hostess is called, never puts in appearance among her guests until the kindly shades of evening have fallen, so that the wrinkles that an octogenarian—despite all art—cannot prevent, may be less apparent.

Mrs. Hughes-Hallatt does things in a regal fashion and it is largely due to her boundless hospitality that the pretty seaside capitol of Brittany has become the favorite haunt of American, English and French youth and beauty.

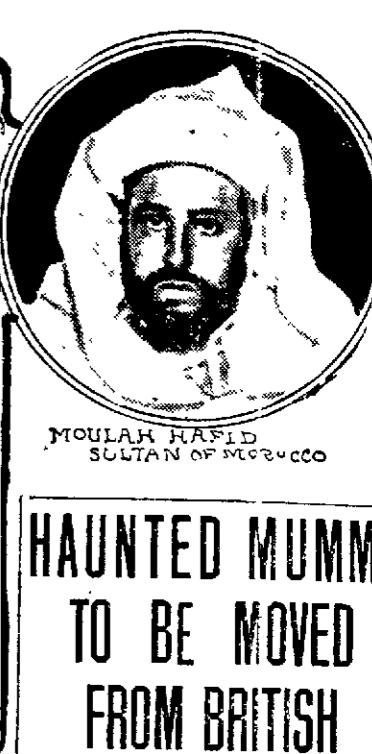

We Frenchmen think we can woo and win the hearts of fair ladies better than

For 30 Years Possession of the Priestess' Coffin Lid Has Meant Disaster

(By WILLIAM T. STEAD.)

LONDON, Aug. 14.—I heard today a very startling report, for which, however, I was not unprepared.

It is stated that on account of the number of "accidents" that have occurred to visitors to the Egyptian room in the British Museum, the famous mummy case lid of the royal priestess Amen Ra will shortly be removed from the room where it has been exhibited for several years.

Thereby goes a tale of gruesome tales, but for the fact that the truth of all the incidents is perfectly well authenticated, would be scouted by rational beings as a more preposterous story than any found in the Arabian Nights.

Fragments of this amazing history have been told before, but I am enabled now to give the readers the true and full particulars of the fatalities and disasters that have for a generation marked the possession of what has been called the "malignant mummy" of the British Museum.

Great Malevolence

The mummy case in question is No. 22,542 in the museum catalogue. The mummy which it originally covered was never brought to England. More than thirty years ago this case was brought from Egypt by a party of four young gentlemen who had been enjoying a holiday on the Nile. One of these is a personal friend of my own.

He had a letter from him every day, telling us all the details of his life, and full particulars of the fatalities and disasters that have for a generation marked the possession of what has been called the "malignant mummy" of the British Museum.

ALAMEDA COUNTY WOMEN ARE ARDENT WORKERS FOR THE SUFFRAGE CAUSE

Views of Many of Them Show They Have Given Question Great Deal of Thought

WOMEN are working for civic betterment, and their interest in affairs of the kind is constantly increasing. I believe that woman's suffrage will come eventually. There is one fundamental principle that applies to the whole thing under a representative form of government, the interests of any particular set of people are more likely to be advanced when represented by one of themselves than by one of another class, no matter how altruistic."—William H. Taft.

The aspect of the question of woman's suffrage in Alameda county as well as elsewhere is becoming brighter and more encouraging to the believers in the cause, which evolves the principles of righteousness, justice and political equality for the fairest sex.

The local women declare that they need the ballot because in these days of clubs and associations they are learning more about their obligations to society and the necessity of raising the political plane for the welfare of the young men and women who constitute the rising generation.

The suffragists of this county are unanimous in their opinion that voting would increase the intelligence of women and would enable them to protect their own industrial, social, moral and educational rights. For the purpose of carrying the amendment to the Legislature, which gives the ballot to women, the Oakland Suffrage Amendment League was organized in this city in September, 1907.

Many Active Members

It has an enrollment of seventy-five active members and hundreds of associate members who are working for the enactment of the suffrage clause.

The officers of the league are Mrs. Agnes Ray, president; Mrs. M. P. Murphy, first vice president; Mrs. Jean Kulllogg, second vice president; Mrs. D. C. Lyon, treasurer; Mrs. Alfred Moulton, City Society, which is headed by Mrs.

corresponding secretary; Mrs. Sarah C. Forland, recording secretary.

Since the society was instituted much progress has been made in the way of educating women for the ballot and in eradicating many civic vices which the public does not know of.

Very Old Society

The Alameda County Political Equal-

C. C. Hall of Berkeley, is one of the oldest suffrage organizations on this side of the bay and has greatly assisted the suffrage movement in this country.

The society is composed of women of culture and education who believe that they should have a voice in the making of the laws under which they are governed. The members have had the incentive that an enlightened government would recognize the equal rights of women, and in the progress of civilization they would be allowed to vote.

Woman's suffrage would prove advantageous in every way, and with that idea in their minds they have perfect confidence that they will eventually be given the privileges of citizenship. In this society the women have taken the broadest view of affairs and feel that the homes as well as the entire community would be better if women were allowed to assert their political rights.

Here are some of the points of view and expressions from the leading suffragists of Alameda county, who are confident that the ballot will be given to women:

MRS. WILLIAM KEITH

Mrs. William Keith, president of the Berkeley Political Equality Club.

"Anyone in these days who should try to read everything printed on the subject of the progress in the public sentiment toward woman's suffrage in newspapers, journals, magazines and books would have no time left for anything else. One actively engaged in propaganda work receives a great amount of printed matter from Europe, especially from England. In our own country, New York, Boston and other large cities furnish an army of writers, and here in California, if one receives matter from the 'clipping bureau' an idea can be formed of the extent to which our newspapers are helping the cause along by reports of the suffrage meetings, allusions to the subject by public speakers, interviews with prominent men and women, opinions of editors, foreign items and expressions of opinion from the people.

Spirit of Times

"This proof of increased popular interest is explained by some as due merely to the spirit of the times, but the spirit has been evolved and fostered by years of steady, unremitting effort and hard labor by women throughout the country, hitherto few in number. The public press used as an instrument is now rapidly educating the people and public sentiment is in the transforming process.

"The friends of this particular sociological reform, one of the most basic of any, feel not more confident of its absolute justice and expediency than of its prevailing everywhere before many years. They can afford now to smile while maintaining an unshaken front amid the sharp rattle of hostile criticism.

"When, for instance, a former governor of Colorado cites as an unanswerable argument against woman's suffrage that he knows many nice ladies in Colorado who do not care to vote, they feel sure it will occur to many that there are many nice gentlemen in our own California who do not care to vote.

Logical Argument

"More's the pity, alas, for the greatly talked of cause of good government. And while they are thus reflecting before the governor's wife and daughter came forward with a public denial of the various charges against the women of Colorado, whereupon they safely conclude that the newspaper editors set up the ex-governor as they would a nine-pin, merely to see him bowled out for a sensation.

"Elbert Hubbard writes in The Fra that the man who says woman should not vote because the mass of women do not want to vote talks like a parrot that has been educated by a monkey.

"The coming State convention to be held by the California Suffrage Association at Stockton, during the first week of October, should be attended by as many men and women as possible from Alameda county, where there is a great deal of favorable sentiment ready to be organized and aroused to action."

DR. SARAH I. SHUEY

Dr. Sarah I. Shuey, a practicing physician and an ardent believer in woman's suffrage—"Why do I believe in suffrage for women? Because I am a human being as well as a woman, and I believe in true democracy, and wish to get into the company of rational human beings before the law, and not to be classed with the idiots, imbeciles, the insane and criminals—because the city, State or nation is only a larger family, therefore it is inevitable and essential that women should share in the responsibility for the normal development of the race. Also because the best laws are enacted for children in States where women vote; because of the intelligent, thoughtful, earnest women who are the leaders in spirit of his protest.

"The ballot, notwithstanding the vice and stupidity too frequently behind it, is that which makes laws and conditions, and incidentally men and women. Had the mothers of voters been experienced in its use it is likely the ballot of today might be more worthy and more effective.

"But there is really no reason for the woman's suffrage movement, and us to get unduly excited over the mat

"There is no greater concern than because there is no logical objection to woman's suffrage. Woman is not strong still—her uprising and her out-calling are distinguishing the century in nothing else will, and all the forces which make for progress in the world are pushing her to her rightful place. Physiology, sociology and psychology are pushing harder than we are, or can we can, for a strong, clean, fine womanhood and motherhood. Also, the sharp economic contests of the business world are strong factors in the pushing process—the strongest, perhaps, though possibly not the strongest. But so long as we, as a nation, est value only in terms of money, this is most effective. And let women rest not until there is established a standard of equal pay for equal service, whether the worker be man or woman.

MRS. L. L. GILLOGLY

Mrs. L. L. Gillogly, president of the Woman's Suffrage Club of Alameda, and First Chapter regent of the Daughters of the American Revolution—"The sentiment of the country seems to be growing in favor of the suffrage movement. Although it may not come to pass for several years, women must without doubt be granted the ballot."

MRS. STURTEVANT-PEET

Mrs. Sturtevant-Peet, formerly State president of the Women's Christian Temperance Union of California and a strong advocate of woman's suffrage—"I think that suffrage will be granted to women when those who are now withholding their opinions on the ballot would express themselves. Men are recognizing that the political parties of today have not the virtue that they once possessed. They realize that the virtue is lost. Conditions show this. The greater realization they have of this fact the sooner will they welcome and search for a better element. There is not nearly that party worship that there was years ago."

"All reforms are co-related and women have rocked reforms in the cradle until they have become giants. All good reforms prevail in the end. No great reform was ever defeated."

"Women are making greater progress than what one would think. A great deal of education along the line of suffrage is being carried on. There is a wonderful uprising among women in all parts of the world. They are breaking the fetters everywhere. Even in China when the women noticed they were being oppressed by the Japanese they rose up and boycotted the Japanese goods."

"But God's in his heaven, and we shall wait as calmly as may be for the good time coming. In the meantime women will keep on working in civic improvement clubs and pure milk crusades and consumers' leagues and rescue work for lost boys and fallen women and thrice prostrate men; everywhere, in fact, where work is to be done for the protection of life and liberty and opportunity and happiness which men and laws could give but will not."

MISS E. H. STOY

Miss Elinor H. Story, a lecturer, writer and suffragist—"I believe in justice, and have never been able to see that men, mentally or morally, have any advantage over women. I believe in democracy and in the possibility of going on toward more democracy, whereas now with only the man half doing the voting, we see but a democracy in name."

MACDONOUGH

At the Macdonough Theater, August 23, 24 and 25, the Wards &

Kemper Company will present a play of contemporary life in America, "Paid in Full," a play by everybody considered the greatest and the most entertaining drama produced in this country in years, and it is to question the mother of all comedies has ever been. It is a comedy of a life of a blithe, sensitive person, and her attempt to start life in keeping with the opinions in the nation, a life tragic.

Herbert Mayo, Mrs. Liske's leading actress, will be in the cast.

A recent performance of "Three

SOME OF THE OFFICERS OF THE AMERICANS, OAKLAND ASSEMBLY NO. 2, WHO ARE WORKING FOR THE SUCCESS OF THE COMING WHIST TOURNAMENT AND BANQUET.

The Americans, Oakland Assembly No. 2, had its regular meeting at Castle Hall, the high standing of the Americans' hospitality will be maintained. The time for obtaining members for earning the standard was extended to September 13. A great deal of interest is being displayed; success is assured. Mrs. M. A. Lovie, Chapman; O. V. McClellan and H. F. Parker, Mrs. Martha Winchester, Vernon Lovie, James White, Rosine to banquet the assembly Winchester, C. A. Lovie.

Woodmen of World

The new Alameda county committee, Woodmen of the World, composed of five representatives from Oakland, Forest, Alameda, Atherton, Spruce, Pinata, Woodwood, Castro, Bay Tree, and Encinal camps, met last Thursday evening in Woodmen's Hall and organized, by electing the following officers to serve for the ensuing six months: President, H. N. Edwards of Pinata Camp; first vice-president, A. D. Blaum, Bay Tree; second vice-president, F. M. Read, Oakland; secretary, J. K. Jenkins, Forest, treasurer, Arthur Hughes, Forest.

Delegates were sent from Thomas Doush's secretary of the Pinata Camp committee, inviting the Woodmen of Alameda county to participate in the parade to be held during the fair festival. The master was referred to the camps and the secretary was instructed to report the action taken to the parade committee.

A committee of five, consisting of Arthur Hughes of Forest Camp, J. G. Reed of Alphar, F. M. Read of Oakland, L. S. Suberberg of Spruce and F. F. Bowers of Pinata was appointed to organize a ritualistic contest between the officers of the five camps.

The camp decided to pay the regular monthly visit to Athlone Camp on Wednesday evening, August 13. Fred Earmen of Alpha Camp, J. B. Allen and Herman Pfleiderer of Forest will arrange for the visit. Organizer W. L. Dibble called attention to the big campaign which was inaugurated at the reception to the head officers and will close September 27. J. B. Allen was elected official press correspondent of the committee. Fruvalt camp will be visited September 1.

The members of Gothic Camp, No. 64, W. C. S. 843, are sumptuously equipped to be on hand next Tuesday evening to assist in welcoming home Head Master Rosine and his corps of assistants who will be in this city on their return to San Diego. There will be a special program and all visitors will be cordially welcomed. Head Consul Park has sent a cable to the committee, assuring them that men stating that this has been one of the greatest fun ever undertaken by the head camp officers, and that everywhere he and his assistants were warmly welcomed.

Rebekah

Sunset Rebekah Lodge No. 109 held a pleasant and interesting meeting last Friday evening. The officers were present and the hall was filled by Dr. Billings, Mrs. Pettigrew. Many visitors were present and enjoyed refreshments which the attraction committee had provided. Next Friday evening the Rebekahs will be initiated into the mysteries of the Rebekahs. On Friday, August 29, a shampooing dance will be given in Flatiron Hall. Brother Schneider is chairman of the committee. Brother First Grand James Rye requests the support of the members next Wednesday evening as he intends to drill the new officers in the initiatory degree.

Odd Fellows

Harbor Lodge No. 55, I. O. O. F., met in regular session last Wednesday evening in Acalanes Hall, Seventeenth and Pinata streets, West Oakland. Noble Grand H. A. Erickson presided. Considerable business was transacted during the meeting. On Thursday evening, August 26, Harbor Lodge will give a theater party at Yo Liberty playhouse. On that evening the Bishopton players will appear in Nat C. Goodwin's famous comedy, "The Genius." It is one of the finest plays on the stage. All Odd Fellows should join Harbor Lodge in making the party a success. Brother Schneider is chairman of the committee.

Brother First Grand James Rye requests the support of the members next Wednesday evening as he intends to drill the new officers in the initiatory degree.

Fraternal Brotherhood

The regular business meeting of Oak Lodge, No. 16, was held last Friday evening in Pythian Castle.

The Lodge committee is busily engaged in the affairs of the order, and the members are present.

The entertainment committee is arranging to give a basket social on Friday evening.

The Smartest Fashions of Well-Dressed Folk

ON THE RIVER

MY DEAREST MADGE:
As Jack was forced to go away last week on a stupid business trip, I decided to join the girls up here at their cottage on the river. One of the most rigid rules is that no one shall wear anything inappropriate, so many jumpers and regulation sailors are the order of the day, although the "boss" says that we may wear variations of each.

Yesterday we invited Virginia Vail to join us in an al fresco luncheon. She is staying at some really gay resort.

One of the girls was to paddle over for her, so we drew lots for the honor, which Helen won. So, in really nautical regalia, she started out on her voyage to pluck our guest from the lip of society, and when they returned you should have seen the contrast! Virginia wore a lovely blue linen, with a panel in front and back, although the skirt and waist were cut separately on each side. Bands of the material extended over each shoulder, and the points of them and of the panels met in front and back just below the yoke of ecru lace. The same lace connected the upper sleeve of linen and the undersleeve of ecru net, and buttons covered with the linen and lace trimmed the dress. Her hat was a Jethorn, with a huge bow of blue satin ribbon and blue satin strings which tied under the chin. Can you think of a more summery girl?

Her ferrywoman wore a white navy jumper with white sailor collar and black bow of nautical look over a blue linen dress, sleeveless and low in the neck. The jumper faced down the right side, as did also the blue beneath, so it was all just like a real sailor suit.

What did I wear? A white linen with panel back and front edged with white pearl buttons in groups of three. The front panel joined red linen sailor collar, which very loosely encircled the neck. The sleeves were of elbow length, with turnback cuffs of white. Does it sound pretty? Lovingly yours, ELEANOR.

CONCERNING HEALTH and BEAUTY

By MRS. HENRY SYMES

When Susie Wears Short Socks

Mixing Ingredients to Remove Stains and Toughen the Skin

EVERY mother must know that during the short-sock season the children's knees get into a most deplorable condition. Scratches and bruises and many surface skinning are of daily occurrence, and if mother is careful and does not want little Bobby or Susie to look very badly when dressed for the afternoon, she must try to keep the delicate little knees as well as possible. This for the beauty standpoint. There is also the other side. Susie's scratches may hurt, or she may fall and bruise the tender skin. These sufferings mother may quickly alleviate if she knows exactly what to do, and in this I wish to advise her.

If Susie has been blackberrying, the chances are that when she returns her uncovered knees will be scratched. Sometimes these minor ailments become quite inflamed and sore. All such troubles may be obviated if the little red marks are painted with peroxide. A soft camel's-hair brush kept especially in the medicine closet for the application of this healing disinfectant will prove unbelievably useful. For any slight cut peroxide is a sovereign remedy.

Should Susie, however, have merely stained her knees, then an application of lemon juice and glycerine will whiten them and help to toughen the skin. Every mother has these ingredients on hand and they may easily be mixed. Half and half will not be too strong if no skin is broken.

If Susie, by dint of much kneeling while playing jackstones or running alluring mud pies, gets her knees brown with ground-in dust and earth, the abraded skin may soon sting forth and mother may scours them carefully with a sponge and suds made of soap and powdered pumice. No suds can withstand such treatment, and it is not as heroic as it sounds.

Soak in Salt Water to Take off Pain when Bruised

Should Susie tumble down and scrape her little knees, mother may paint the injury with calomel, which will form a hard surface and keep out all possible germs until the new skin grows again. Should she merely bruise her knees, then mother may soak them in salt water. This takes out all pain and makes the little daughter comfortable. Later, if mother bathes the bruises with lead-water and laudanum, the unsightly discolorations will disappear and Susie will bear no marks of her mishap.

One may use any of these remedies on any other scratch or scrape or bruise, but I would suggest that mother take especial care of baby knees, for sometimes a microscopic germ lodged in a tiny sore will work great havoc.

Paint the Scratches with Peroxide

in the matter of the evening church wedding some doubt has been expressed concerning the proper costume, but the final decision seems to be that any handsome frock will do, provided it is not cut low at the neck. A hat, too, must be worn. This costume may also be worn to the reception afterward. Should the evening wedding be held at the house, full evening dress would not be out of place.

I know that many will wish to ask now, "If Mrs. Jones asks us by telephone to dine with her, how can we tell whether others are to be present—whether it is to be a home dinner or a dinner party?" You cannot tell. I can only suggest that you ask your hostess, if you know her well enough. If not, wear your best semi-dressy gown and hope for the best.

At dances, concerts and all evening entertainments of a formal nature evening clothes should be worn, although if Mr. Stanley is asked to an evening entertainment where no women are expected, he may wear, instead of the swallow-tail coat, a shorter coat known as a dinner jacket. With this a black coat is worn and a turn-down collar; otherwise the garments are the same. This coat, perhaps because of the collar, is more comfortable than the swallow-tail, and men therefore like to wear it. It is never proper, however, except for wear in one's own house on informal occasions, or to wear to entertainments when women are not invited. The 6 o'clock rule applies to women just as it does to men in regard to full evening dress. Semi-evening dress a woman may wear in the afternoon. Full evening dress for women means low neck (or sometimes a low-cut dress with a guimpe of gauze), very short sleeves, a long-trained skirt and jewels. With such a costume long gloves are always worn, and an ornament is frequently worn in the hair. This dress is to be worn on all formal occasions after 6 o'clock, unless the person who receives it is a member of a man's society.

PERPLEXITIES SOLVED

A Little Doubtful

Dear Mrs. Adams,
I often have a young girl and have a friend who is a young man. I have a company. Of late I do not think he cares so much about me. Would you please inform me what is the paper of a man which you can find out?

VERONICA

I only understand what you mean when you say a man is keeping company with you. Could anyone answer your question more satisfactorily?

If you are engaged to the young man, you are not engaged to the young lady in question. Surely you may manage this.

CLARA O.

It is not necessary to treat the young man with coquishness to avoid showing your love for him. Be as friendly with as you are with your other male friends, treat him kindly, be interested in whatever he may be doing, but do not be forward and, above all things, don't gush.

Dear Mrs. Adams,
I often have a young lady whose acquaintance I would like very much to make. Now, how can I go about this in a gentlemanly and not repulsive way?

Wants to Meet a Girl

Dear Mrs. Adams,
I often have a young lady whose acquaintance I would like very much to make. Now, how can I go about this in a gentlemanly and not repulsive way?

CLARA O.

It is not necessary to treat the young man with coquishness to avoid showing your love for him. Be as friendly with as you are with your other male friends, treat him kindly, be interested in whatever he may be doing, but do not be forward and, above all things, don't gush.

SHATTERS THE ROMANCE OF SHERMAN AND THE ROSE BUSH

Senorita Bonifacio of Monterey Dissipates the Love Story About Which the Romancers Have Woven Fine Spun Yarns.

MONTEREY, Cal. — There is no city in California so rich in historic interest—that is, in the history which cements the present with the period of the American occupation—as Monterey.

Here one may see the old Mexican custom house, which is now the headquarters of the Native Sons of California. Here, too, is an adobe structure which is styled the "first theater in California," and the story runs that it was made famous by the singing within its walls of Jenny Lind.

Here also is a smaller building of the same material which is styled the "old Mexican jail," and one may find visitors standing before the structure as if in contemplation of the days when the place harbored the horse-thieves and cut-throats, a people who are yearly dropping out of sight.

The visitor is also shown the first brick house in California, the first adobe house in California, the first United States postoffice in California, the first lumber house in California, the fort which was built at the time of the American occupation, the quarters which were occupied at the time by Spanish officers, the structure in which was held the first session of the legislature of California, the house of Jimeno, and what has been styled the "Sherman Rose."

With each of these places the visitor is told an interesting story or legend, some of which is based upon fact, while the rest is purely imagination.

For a few dimes one may purchase a nicely gotten up pamphlet by J. K. Oliver, who is an author and artist as well as a dealer in curios, in which there is a most interesting intermingling of fact and fancy.

Story of Lost Pearls

In it one may read with absorbing interest the story of the "Lost Pearls of Loreta" and the tragic ending of the dashing caballero, Vincent de la Vega and Isabel Herrera, who in the days of the Spaniards was called La Favorita, the fairest of the fair maidens of Monterey.

There is a horrible ending to the legend because the senor and senorita throw themselves into the waters of the bay, the former thus escaping the gallows because of the unforgivable crimes of murder and sacrifice.

Mr. Oliver is a practical man. He does not touch for the authenticity of the legend. He simply tells the story as it was told to him, and the reader or listener is at liberty to believe it or not, just as he pleases.

Still another story hangs about what is known as the "Sherman

"Rose." This is embellished by pictures and by illuminated cards, showing the rose bush or vine. Here it may be remarked rose bushes grow so luxuriantly that with proper care they eventually cover as much area as a trained grape vine.

The Sherman Rose

The "Sherman Rose" as it stands today hangs in showers from a vine of this kind, and clinging to it also is a romantic story of the alleged early devotion of two young hearts, one a pioneer among the youthful American soldiers of two generations ago, and the other the winsome, innocent and beautiful senorita of a place noted for the attractiveness, the romantic spirit, the beauty and the modesty of maidens.

The soldier was the late General William Tecumseh Sherman, one of the great triumvirate of generals of the civil war—Grant, Sheridan, Sherman—who, at the time, 1847-1850, was a lieutenant in the United States army and stationed in California, mostly at this place.

The other was Senorita Maria Ignacia Bonifacio, and the story is told that when Sherman was a lieutenant here in 1847 he met and loved the senorita; that in 1850, before returning to the United States, he and the senorita jointly planted a rose as an evidence of mutual love, which it was intended should result in a mating for life when he should return to this coast.

Famous Old Story

The story, however, is best told by Mr. Oliver as "twas told to him."

"Another interesting legend is that in which the name of Lieutenant Sherman—General William Tecumseh Sherman of civil war fame—is connected. While the young Lieutenant was stationed in Monterey with United States troops he became enamored with Senorita Bonifacio, who was considered the most beautiful woman in the town. He had been ordered East, and while calling upon his senorita for the last time he wore a cloth-of-gold rose in the buttonholes of the coat of his uniform. His sweetheart took the rose from his coat, saying, 'Together we will plant a rose as steel, who never deceived an enemy and who could not be false to a friend.'

Many things may be condoned in adolescence and especially when dashing, youthful soldiers with as well as without shoulder straps find themselves isolated among impressionable and attractive maidens, but there is no one to palliate the offense of winning a girl's heart only to break it. In effect that is what has been charged to Lieutenant, subsequently Sherman, the general who, to the amazement of even Lincoln, made his march to the sea and died annoyed by the adulation and notoriety which everywhere met him in after years because of the plain performance of the horrible duty of war which the emergency of the times called upon him to perform.

Regardless of the fact that this tale gives Sherman the character of a romantic roysterer, the story is a pretty one, but unfortunately—it is not true. Sherman is dead and beyond the Photograph of the so-called Sherman Rose bust and Senorita Bonifacio, the heroine who has destroyed the romance that romancers have built about the place and the woman.

past. The present picture is in strange contrast to that of earlier times. Modern brick structures rise on either side of the pretty grass-grown yard, while close to the front wall of the old adobe bloom and nestle still the cloth-of-gold roses."

Disparages Sherman

It is a pretty story but, in a measure, unintentionally casts a reflection upon the manliness of a soldier of the United States—a man who was true as steel, who never deceived an enemy and who could not be false to a friend.

There is speculation here as to why the senorita has remained single, but it is only speculation. Nobody, save herself, knows the real facts of the case. There are few now residing here who were residents of Monterey when the senorita was the beauty of the place. They have no actual knowledge of what romance there has been in her life and she has not seen fit to take her friends of later days into her confidence.

But human nature is the same here as it is in other parts of the world and "people will talk." There are people who profess to know that the "Sherman rose" story is unfounded and that the real love passion of the senorita was inspired by a dashing Mexican soldier who was stationed here shortly before the occupation by Americans. The name of the lucky son of Mars, it is said, was Estrada, but—he lost favor in the senorita's eyes, or rather in the eyes of the parents of the maiden.

In these days, say some of the Spaniards whose families have been here creating much interest in Greek letter circles.

PRETTY GIRLS AND RICH HUSBANDS AND METHODS OF MATCH-MAKING MAMAS

There is a time-honored proverb which says, "Matchmakers often burn their fingers," and the truth of this warning is often realized by the professional chaperon. For, after all, we ladies who utilize our position and influence to advance some girl up the social ladder for a monetary consideration are professional chaperons, however ugly the term may seem to the more fastidious.

The matchmaking chaperon comes to you. She has money, you have influence. She is willing to buy some of the latter, and will pay you, say, 2500 pounds or 5000 pounds to introduce her daughter into the "set" of that charming young eligible, the Marquess of —. It is purely a business transaction; and if the ambitious mother and ambitious daughter do burn their fingers, and find that they have sacrificed happiness for position by not taking into account that mythical little Cupid in their matrimonial arrangements—well, they have no one to blame but themselves.

Rules of Matchmakers

It is not an easy matter, this matchmaking. The greatest tact is required; otherwise the fish angled for will take flight. Even the best matchmakers have never discovered a set of rules bound to work the same in every case. One mother, who has married off two daughters to their and her own satisfaction, confessed to me a short time ago that the real secret of the art of bringing off a successful marriage is to appear absolutely indifferent to the man it is sought to catch. "Not snub him, mark you, but just treat him as you would half-a-dozen other friends."

Another matchmaking mamma hit upon a very ingenious idea. She took her daughters to a certain university town for the winter months, kept a large establishment, and allowed students who were heirs to title and wealth to visit her; in this way the girls made the acquaintance of young aristocrats when they were at a very susceptible age, and ultimately married very well.

A Bad Case

The worst of it is that the daughter who would be loved for herself alone is sometimes sacrificed to the ambitions of a mother, who marries her to a man perhaps old enough to be her father, and for whom the girl has not the slightest affection, simply in order that she herself may gain an entry into the exclusive circles to which he belongs. It is, in fact, one of the secrets of the matchmaking mamma today that, while pretending to act for her daughter's interest, she is really actuated by selfish motives.

One of the worst cases which ever came to my knowledge was that of the mother of one of the most beautiful and accomplished debutantes of two years ago. The girl was not rich, but would probably have married well and happily, if she had been left to her own choice, from amongst a number of men to whom I was the means of introducing her, several of whom showed a liking for her society; but the mother had other views.

Eloped From the Hotel

But the matchmaking mamma has to be extremely careful to guard her daughter from unacceptable suitors. One lady of my acquaintance made the mistake of settling down one summer in a large hotel where there was a dearth of young men of her own social circle, and no man at all who could possibly be regarded as a suitable party for her daughter. She seemed to feel secure in this fact, but the daughter was attracted by a man staying in the hotel who ultimately proved to be a bank clerk. They eloped, and now that matchmaking mamma is warning all other mothers with whom she comes into contact against the dangers of staying at an hotel, "for you never know," she says, "what horfor generations, daughters were more under the control of parents than they were subsequently or are now, and the father and mother had more to say and do in determining to whom their daughters should give their affection than they have at the present time.

At all events, so the gossips say, the senorita's father and mother looked with distaste upon the Mexican soldier of fortune, intending to bestow their daughter upon one of the lordly ranchers of the time, whose occupation to them seemed more enabling than that of a youth who was following in the wake of a shifting army.

Marriage Interdicted

The marriage was interdicted and the soldier disappeared after the American occupation and his resting place, for many years, is said now to be marked by a simple slab in the cemetery at San Luis Obispo. Speaking to the writer a few days ago, the lady who imparted the information regarding the Estrada romance said:

"Senorita Bonifacio has denied to me that there is any truth in the story of the love-planting of a rose between herself and General Sherman. Recently I went to see her, taking with me an authoress who is to write a book about the place and who wanted a verification of the Sherman romance. I have known the senorita since I was a child. I am a personal friend of her's and when I spoke to her in Spanish and asked her to tell the authoress the true story of the 'Sherman rose' incident, she refused to say a word on the subject. She declared that the papers had already said so much that was without foundation that it was exceedingly annoying to her and that she would say nothing on the subject at all."

THE TRIBUNE, however, has been more successful through its representative who called upon the senorita a few days ago, and who was able to converse with her in the tongue which she learned in infancy and from her secured a denial of the Sherman story. The denial was short, because it was apparent the subject was not an interesting one to the senorita and at the same time was a delicate one to introduce, as it affected the private and personal affairs of a lady.

Why is She Single

There is speculation here as to why the senorita has remained single, but it is only speculation. Nobody, save herself, knows the real facts of the case. There are few now residing here who were residents of Monterey when the senorita was the beauty of the place. They have no actual knowledge of what romance there has been in her life and she has not seen fit to take her friends of later days into her confidence.

In these days, say some of the Spaniards whose families have been here suggestion of a sadness, the cause for which may perhaps be imagined.

The subject of the Sherman incident was broached to her diplomatically and ostensibly without any purpose in view, and in discussing it the senorita said in an easy manner:

"It is not true. I don't know anything about the story of General Sherman and myself planting that rose tree, except what they tell me is in the papers," and as she said this she pointed to the rose vine, which nearly covered the approach to her whitewashed, clearly adobe structure of other days.

She Knew Sherman

"I knew Lieutenant Sherman, but that was many years ago. I was not engaged to him. All I know in that regard is what was told me. I was told by some friends that he said that of all the girls he met in Monterey, the one he liked the best was Maria Ignacia Bonifacio. In those days we used to have dances. I used to go to them like all the young people, and Lieutenant Sherman danced with me. It was my mother who planted that rose bush, and it was planted before I knew Lieutenant Sherman. When people used to ask me about it years ago I told them that I remembered seeing my mother plant it, but now, I do not like to talk about it, so many people want to talk about Mr. Sherman."

When the senorita referred to the fact that she had been told that Lieutenant Sherman had esteemed her highly, she did so in a hesitating, diffident manner, and her eyes modestly sought the floor, while a faint blush of embarrassment tinged her cheeks. There was no indication of emotion, however. It was simply a happy remembrance of childhood days which to some become the dearer the farther they are left behind.

There Four Years

Sherman was in Monterey during the greater part of the years 1847, 1848, 1849 and 1850. He returned to the United States in January of the last year on a six months' leave of absence and bearing dispatches to the War Department.

On the first of May of the same year he was married to Miss Ellen Boyle Ewing, daughter of Hon. Thomas Ewing, at the time secretary of the interior. He became engaged to this lady after his graduation from West Point, and before his departure for California. In fact, he had been for a number of years a member of her father's family, because, on the death of his own father, he had been adopted by Thomas Ewing of Ohio, one of the most celebrated men of his time. The wedding of Lieutenant Sherman and Miss Ewing at Washington was attended by many nobles, among them being Daniel Webster, Henry Clay, Thomas H. Benton, President Zachary Taylor and others. It is not likely, in this connection, that Sherman forgot the sweetheart who had grown up with him in the home provided for him by her father, even when he was an the senorita on the Pacific coast.

Sherman both a private and military life was devoted, and consistently devoted, to duty. He was stern and almost unbending, but there were times when he indulged in relaxation, and there is no doubt that when he was at Monterey he did not sleep in his tent or adobe when brother officers were having diversion among the dark-eyed senoritas. He makes no concealment of this fact in his memoirs, which is entirely in keeping with the character of the man. In these references to the relaxation of the officers, he gives a true idea of the spirit of the people as well as of the time then in California.

Small Adobe House

He locates his place of abode in the following terse manner:

"I had a small adobe house back of Larkin's."

At that time Larkin was the United States consul to Monterey. The house is still standing. It was adjacent to the then home of Senorita Bonifacio, but the present home of the latter, which is on the main street here, is not the one which the senorita occupied at that time. Another extract in this connection is as follows: "Hallett, Murray and Ord," all of whom afterwards rose to distinction in the army, "boarded with Dora Augustas and we turned in our rations as pay for our board."

Still another shows patriotism and pleasure:

"As was usual, the army officers celebrated the 2d of February with a grand ball, given in the new stone schoolhouse which Alcalde Cotton had built. It was the largest and best hall then in California. The ball was really a handsome affair and we kept it up nearly all night."

Social Life

Another picture of the social life at this time is painted in the following: "The girls were very fond of dancing and they did nice gracefully and well. Every Sunday, regularly, we had a balle, or dance, and sometimes interspersed through the week. All the month of February we were preparing for our long stay in country, and at night making the of the balls and parties of the primitive kind, picking up a smattering of Spanish and extending our acquaintance with the people and customs of the place."

But the romance of that early day is no more. The lieutenant of '47, the grim-visaged warrior of '61-65 has done his duty, 'tis done with life and in an humble grave, marked by a simple monument, he sleeps beside his wife and sweetheart of the days when he was first permitted to place after his name U. S. A., the initials of the service to which he was devoted and in which he gained imperishable renown.

WILKES-BARRE, Pa.—While trying to kill a rat this morning, 17-year-old Mary Owens, of this city, accidentally shot her mother, fataly wounding her.

Mrs. Owens was hunting clothes in the yard, when the rat seized a small chicken and tried to carry it away.

The girl seized her father's rifle, fired at the rat, and was horrified to see her mother sink to the ground. The bullet had entered the right side, and it is believed, passed through her lungs.

Several shield-shaped women who commanded troops. One from New England's standards. All fought like demons and perished. But it seems they were only women who rose to command by daring and military genius. Is there any authority for the legends of Viking bands wholly feminine?

One of Irish "Boys of Lecan" says casually, "the men and women went alike to battle in those days"; and the record of tribal obligations called "Hosting" reckoned women among the fighting strength. Moreover, the Life of Abbott Adamian of Lecan tells how his hearing of this dreadful practice, went to Ireland, allied an assembly of chiefs and bishops, and persuaded them to pass a law, still extant, entitled "Lein Imneann," which forbade the slaying of women to war. It seems like it.

But nobody worth attention has disputed that women are as brave as men. Some have asserted that they are braver. The question is whether they could, if they would, serve as soldiers. Perhaps it is not merely "academic." In a time which the elderly recollect with ease, it might have been dismissed on the ground that such service is unfeminine—not only barred by usage, but forbidden by the laws of nature. We cannot urge that obligation with confidence now, so widely the bounds of feminine propriety have been extended.

From the nature of things women soldiers can only be found as a class among barbarians up to this time, at any rate. The Amazonians made a poor show against the French, but Burton had been much impressed with their forty years' record—and he was a judge. The discipline was terrible, severity in his time; he did not doubt they were very formidable troops. Relaxation of discipline ruined them. The mythical amazons claim a word, since Prof. Sayce adduced such striking evidence to suggest that they were the warrior priestesses of the Amazonians who could be called the "Amazonian warriors."

SCHOOL for HOUSEWIVES

By MARION HARLAND

"A light basket of cookies is passed."

LIKE that word—"veranda"—better than "piazza," and it expresses something that "porch" does not cover. The latter word is synonymous with the old Knickerbocker "stoop." Both imply roominess and cozy comfort, a secluded corner in which anyhoer and his hausbud could take their ease, with pipe and mending basket, when the hard work of the day was done. The neighbors gathered there on summer evenings, and the air was thick with tobacco smoke and gossip. As a rule, the mistress of the house dismoured the grove of vines about the square stoop. They were harbors for mosquitoes and slugs, and dry leaves and drooping flowers littered the floor.

Our veranda would not deserve the three-syllabled word were it bare of the draping vines. We got it from the orientals, with whom it signifies seclusion gained by lattices and shutters and vines. An English lexicographer appeals to this definition the gratuitous observation that "The veranda is erroneously called a 'piazza' in the United States."

Afternoon tea and the rechristening of porch, stoop and piazza have come to us simultaneously, and they have come to stay. It may be long before, from mansion to hotel, tea will be made and served at 5 o'clock throughout the length and breadth of our land, as in England, Scotland and Ireland. Were the vapor of the tilted teakettle visible, it would obscure the face of the sun between 4:30 and 5 in the British Isles. Queen and washerwoman drink together then, and the clink of china marks the hour as faithfully as the town clock.

AFTER THE ENGLISH

The cozy, another English importation, is almost an essential when tea is served upon the veranda. If there be any breeze in the long summer day, it may be depended upon to spring up as the sun nears the western horizon. Moreover, the canny housemother sets the table in the coolest corner of the shaded veranda. She slips the cozy over the pot after the latter is filled, and leaves it there for the two minutes that are requisite to draw out the flavor and tonic properties of the Celestial herb without poisoning the infusion with tannic acid. The hot-water pot flanks the teapot, in case it should be needed to weaken the beverage for a "nervous" drinker. An alcohol flame burns under it while the function goes on.

Don't cumber the simple and elegant ceremonial of afternoon tea, by numerous and various appointments that make it heavy and expensive. I have in mind one city of fair size and abounding hospitality where the custom degenerated into "receptions" demanding salads, lees and a dozen et ceteras, entailing an expenditure of labor and money that made this form of entertainment impracticable for the woman of limited means.

Ask half a dozen of the neatest neighbors you have to take a cup of tea with you on the veranda on a given afternoon when you have a choice friend staying with you. Group easy chairs and wicker rockers invitingly in the corner sacred to the tea hour, and assemble your guests there as they arrive. Your prettiest teacloth should drape over the top of the teapot, and the teacups should be tucked in the corners of the table. The tea equipage with the swing-ing kettle.

the table, and all the features of the "equipage" must be the best you can bring to the front. A single vase of flowers (not a mixed bouquet) should grace the center of the table. As you make and pour the tea, see to it that the talk flows on smoothly. There should be no break in the thread of anecdote and chat. Silence is always formally uttered in these circumstances.

Have a plate or basket of these bread-and-butter. Some tea-lovers prefer this accompaniment to sandwich or cake. If you or your cook can make good Scotch scones, for which you shall have a recipe presently, they will be received gratefully by those who have received them "on the other side."

Another pleasant accompaniment of tea is the toasted sandwich. That, too, we will have by and by. Sandwiches of tongue and ham and chicken are popular at all times. In hot weather I prefer the lighter varieties of tomato, cress, nasturtium and lettuce sandwiches. On very warm afternoons you may substitute iced for hot tea. Yet, since this cooling drink disagrees seriously with many persons, it is best to have hot tea for such as prefer it.

A basket of light cake or cookies is passed after the bread and sandwiches. For those who take no sugar in their tea, cake is not amiss. It vivifies the tea.

taste of the drink such as qualify it with cream and sugar. In addition to cream jug and sugar bowl have a plate of sliced lemon, and if you serve cold tea, a bowl of cracked ice.

Stop there! Bonbons, fruit and "frappes" are foreign to the genuine, quietly refined function. You vulgarize it by introducing any of them.

Afternoon Tea Scones.

Sift a quart of flour three times with two teaspoonsfuls of baking powder and one of salt. Chop into this a tablespoonful of butter and one of lard for shortening. Mix in a bowl with a wooden spoon into a dough by adding three cupsfuls of sweet milk, or enough to make a soft dough. Do not touch with your hands. Lay the dough upon your kneading board and roll into a sheet half an inch thick. Cut into round cakes with your biscuit cutter and bake upon a gasstone griddle to a light brown. Split and butter well.

Lay a tray or plate with a folded napkin and lay in the scones, folding the corners of the napkin over them to keep them hot.

Toasted Sandwiches.

Cut slices of white or of graham bread thin, butter lightly, and spread one with cream cheese. Press the two slices firmly together and toast the outside of each before a quick fire. Send to table wrapped in a napkin.

Cream Cheese and Sweet Pepper Sandwiches.

Scald the peppers to take off the biting seeds, and drain them. Lay on the ice for some hours. Wipe and mince. Mix two-thirds cream cheese and one-third peppers into a smooth paste. Spread upon lightly buttered bread and put together in sandwich form.

Lettuce Sandwiches.

Butter thin slices of bread and lay between them slices of fresh ripe tomatoes from which the skin has been peeled. Mix two-thirds cream cheese and one-third peppers into a smooth paste. Spread upon lightly buttered bread and put together in sandwich form.

Nasturtium Sandwiches.

Substitute for the lettuce leaves petals of nasturtium flowers dipped in French dressing. This is a pleasant and appealing sandwich.

Body of Ill-Fated Berkeley Lad Is Recovered in Yosemite Valley

FIVE CAMP CURRY BOYS SUCCEED IN DARING HUNT

Remains Are Shockingly Mutilated by Awful Plunge Over Steep Precipice

YOSEMITE, Aug. 14.—Horace R. Logan's body was found this afternoon 1000 feet below, on the dangerous place on the ledge trail from Glacier Point to Camp Curry, where the slippery till of water leaves the ledge and slides out over the slippery granite in a series of "staircase falls."

Will Divide Reward

Firmly of the opinion that the Berkeley lad would be found somewhere near where his hat was discovered last Monday, a band of five boys from Camp Curry kept up the hunt and their perseverance and pluck were rewarded late this afternoon. Incidentally they will divide the $200 reward which was offered for the discovery of the lost boy by J. N. Rosekrans, secretary of the Crocker estate and uncle of the lad.

Kept Doggedly at Search

Although Major W. W. Longfellow, acting superintendent of the Yosemite National Park, told that to hunt for Logan over the sheer granite precipices below Glacier Point was an undertaking too hazardous for his campmen, even though they volunteered for the task, the Camp Curry lads, untroubled by such fears and ever since the military authorities abandoned the spot, they have kept doggedly at the hunt.

They explored a ledge 400 feet below the point where Logan's hat was found and later they went still lower, letting themselves down by long ropes and creeping over the ledges in places where it seemed impossible for a human being to obtain and keep a foothold.

Scale Wall of Cliff

In neither of the two main ledges was any further trace of the lost lad found and they were beginning to be disengaged when they decided to make a final search in the lowest ledge of all. Using their ropes, they let themselves down the wall of cliff fully 1,000 feet below the trail, and the end from the d composed boy soon satisfied them that they were at last at the right place.

Body Horribly Mangled

The remains of the unfortunate lad were found in a shocking condition. Every bone had been broken in the terrible fall over the precipice, and the jagged rocks had torn the clothing from the body until it hung in long ribbons. Death was evidently instantaneous.

BORN LUCKY, ALSO RICH

OMAHA, Neb., Aug. 14.—Born lucky as well as rich is the way W. P. Stillman figures it out. He is a young man who wears a blue jumper and overalls six days a week in the Union Pacific shops at Omaha learning railroading and is a nephew of James P. Stillman, said to be worth $50,000,000. He has a million of his own and his father is reputed to be worth ten times this sum.

Three weeks ago young Stillman took his vacation, going west. Last

New York Beauty Compared to Woman in Portola Queen's Book

UT from the East comes a social thunderbolt, rapping along the highlights of speculation, suggestion and reminiscence, which has it that Mrs. Dandridge Spotswood, the noted New York beauty, direct descendant of the Puritans of the Mayflower, and none other, is the heroine of Virgilia Bogue's passionate novel, which is even now ready to come from the hands of the publishers.

Asked if he would farm and live on the land for five years, the length of time required, Stillman replied that his job in the shop pays him $50 a month and that he can hardly afford to give it up with winter so close at hand.

M'FARLAND IS CHARGED WITH MURDER

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 14.—The coroner's jury at Martinez in the case of Manuel Girela, who was killed near Livermore last Sunday charged James McFarland with the crime. McFarland, arrested as a suspect in San Jose, is now in jail at Martinez.

McFarland strenuously denied he had offered to confess to Sheriff Veale if the sheriff would assure him a life sentence instead of death on the scaffold.

After the inquest McFarland was taken to the Contra Costa county jail.

England in Peril From Germany, Says McClure

CHAUTAUQUA, N. Y., Aug. 14.—S. S. McClure of New York city, in an address today, said the British empire is in mortal danger of destruction at the hands of Germany, and ready merely for the asking to accept the dominance of the United States and see the empire's real seat of authority transferred to Washington.

Meanwhile Mrs. Spotswood, who is living in Europe with her husband, has been much observed at Narragansett Pier and is a frequent guest at the opera and at many of the notable entertainments abroad.

"BOY" OSBORNE CASE TO BE RETRIED

Naval Constructor Evans Secures Order for a New Court-martial

DIVORCED WIFE TO GIVE HER TESTIMONY

To Introduce Letters Young Lieutenant Is Said to Have Written Her

VALLEJO, Aug. 14.—Fortified with the evidence of his divorced wife, Mrs. Maude Evans, and many letters written by Lieutenant "Boy" Osborne to the U. S. S. Cheyenne, Naval Constructor Holden A. Evans, head of the manufacturing department at Mare Island, has obtained a re-opening of the famous case, which attracted so much attention a few weeks ago and which resulted in a reprimand given Osborne for his conduct. Evans for making the master public and which also resulted in the divorce of Evans and his pretty wife.

Osborne was haled before a special board of inquiry last May to answer charges of conduct unbecoming an officer and a gentleman in his making love to Mrs. Evans in her home on Mare Island on Christmas Day, last year, while her husband was ill in bed. Evans caught the couple in their lovemaking and soon afterward divorced his wife. Osborne was tried by the navy board at the Mare Island Navy Yard, but escaped with a reprimand.

such as the Don's European Experts use, and is used by no other physician in this city, does cure this class of diseases. It is both the appearance and experience that make them successful.
Many diseases, which a few years ago were considered incurable, are now easily cured. For Don believes in building up, not destroying. Their large and successful practice in Oakland has been built up within the last year, simply because they cure their patients quickly, permanently and cheaply.
Many well known people, both men and women, who have been cured by these experts after other treatments have failed, have been kind enough to give their information for publication, so that others may take advantage of their experience and be cured as they have been. Most every family has one or more members who are suffering from some ailment which can be cured by Don's mode of treatment.
Many cases are neglected from day to day, thinking and hoping that time alone will make a change in their condition. It is a sad, though well known fact, that disease when left alone, or improperly treated, gradually and continuously grows more severe, and finally, though often unexpectedly, reaches an incurable condition. If any member of your family is so unfortunate as to be suffering from an ailment, regardless of its nature, you are invited to consult For Don's Experts and receive a painstaking and detailed examination of your case and advice without cost to you. If you are now being treated by another physician and are satisfied with your progress, you are advised to stick to the treatment you are now taking, but if you are not getting well or receiving the treatment you require you should consult the European Experts at once.

If you have a lingering disease or a weakness from any cause, it will pay you to have a talk with them about your case. They can at least give you valuable advice without cost to you.

For Don's European Experts can be seen at any time except Sunday, between the hours of 10 and 12, 2 to 4 and 5 to 8 p.m. at their thoroughly equipped offices at 1069 Broadway, where they have been successfully treating the sick and afflicted the past year.

REAL CAPTAIN KING IS FAR FROM IMPERSONATOR

NORTH ADAMS, Mass., Aug. 14.—The real Captain Harry King, whose name has been figuring in love affairs and other unmelancholy events throughout the country, unknown to himself, is at present spending a pastoral vacation at Windsor Lake, far from the scenes of trouble which Impersonator Heaney has brought about by the use of his name and uniform.

Captain King has little to say regarding the escapades of Thomas E. Heaney, arrested in San Francisco, who is reported to have claimed he was King.

TO START BRANCHES IN INLAND CITIES

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 14.—The Anti-Japanese Laundry League is attempting to organize branches in Sacramento, Stockton, San Diego and Santa Barbara.
Invitations from these cities to the effect that the white laundrymen and business men are anxious for relief from the Oriental invasion.

The League is now receiving support from a number of the local Improvement clubs and an effort will be made to enlist all these bodies in the agitation against the Japanese.

OAKLAND AERONAUTS FACE DEATH IN MAD FLIGHT

broad, devastated track. We had been dragged for about 2000 feet, breaking through half a dozen barbed-wire fences.

"Passing slowly and painfully along the way, we gathered up the cameras and other instruments which we found together when we first struck, all being seriously damaged. These and the balloon, which, strange to say, was uninjured, and the fittings we piled upon a wagon given by the farmers brought and had it taken to Pleasanton, where we followed shortly, after having bandaged our bruises at the house of Orton."

Ralph Coxhead and his companion, C. Brown, had followed us from Oakland, and arrived on the scene in time to take us to Pleasanton for the incoming train.

"The gulf was a fifty-mile wind, and in all of my twenty-nine years of ballooning I have never experienced such a disastrous and terrible adversity; it is the worst experience I have ever had. The balloon itself is first-class in every respect. It is made of cotton fabric, containing 760 panels in the block system of construction. The capacity is about 45,000 cubic feet.

"You see, we were continually thrust down by the eddies and currents that circled through the valley. We could have outdistanced them if, in the first place, there had been sufficient sand, but we dared not throw out more than we did, as we had to keep a certain amount for making a landing, which requires careful and quick control of the bag."

"I shall make another ascension in the same balloon next Sunday from the Aero Club grounds at Sixteenth street and Telegraph avenue. Joseph Hidalgo of San Francisco will accompany me."

"A strange coincidence with reference to the entire affair was how our second pigeon went through all the terrible hammering and remained in the little cage unharmed. When I took it out and attempted to send it with a message it could not fly, possibly being dazed with fright. I left it at the farm house."

"P. A. VAN TASSELL."

By PROF. A. VANDER NAILLEN

"I AM glad to announce that the unfortunate ending of our trip was not due to the little balloon upon which we depended, but resulted from a carelessness in understanding of some of our friends, who cut us loose before we were sufficiently supplied with sand for ballast. Otherwise I must say the trip was successful. The air was fine, and conditions were ideal for studying the temperatures and currents.

"We drifted toward Livermore Valley, slowly and gradually, not reaching much of height, the maximum being 5000 feet. I expected to go away to 15,000 feet altitude."

"At three thousand feet, I unscrewed my small delicate thermometer and took account of its registering—64 degrees F. My other instruments, comprising several types of barometers and compasses, I prepared for reading.

"Before passing Oakland, I took several good views of the panorama stretched below, and from all appearances of the camera, the film may be recovered.

"About 1 o'clock I glanced at the compass and the earth, and discovered that we were drifting toward Mount Diablo with a gentle ebb. I freed one of our carriers and mentioned the fact in the note attached to it.

"Thus far the trip was exhilarating and refreshing in every way and I fully enjoyed it, up to the unexpected accident in the valley."

"As to that I can only corroborate Van Tassel's statements—

"Just before we struck for the first time I was arranging one of my instruments, stooping over, when my companion said, 'Van, stand up.' This was a strange yet fortunate circumstance, as it permitted me to grasp the ropes and sustain my equilibrium."

"The ropes undoubtedly saved us from death, as, but for their position, as well as strength, we could not have retained thus permitted us to firmly hold ourselves and obtain a leverage sufficient to overcome the rebound of the concussion in striking.

"It is an experience I shall never forget—one I do not care to go through again, and I am happy to have passed through all with but a few bruises and a stiff leg, outside of the general shaking up."

"A. VANDER NAILLEN, JR."

RETURNS FROM ORIENTAL QUEST

University Professor Studies Educational Methods
in Far East

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 14.—From a long sojourn in the Orient, where he spent all his time in study of educational methods, Professor Ernest DeWitt Burton, of the University of Chicago, came back to the United States today on the liner Siberia, accompanied by Mrs. Burton, Miss Burton and his secretary, Horace G. Reed. They left New York last July, going to the old world by way of New York and the Atlantic. At the same time Professor Thomas C. Chamberlin of the University of Chicago, and his son, started for the Orient, also to study educational affairs, and the two parties met in China.

"My whole time, or all but about a day, said Professor Burton, 'was spent in locating the methods in vogue in educational institutions. I made a hasty trip to India, where I remained two months; in China, where six months were spent, and in Japan, where I remained for two months."

INTO FARTHEST CHINA

The most interesting thing about the trip was the trip into West China, where we saw white men except missionaries everywhere. We were two months on the trip from Hankow and travelling by steamer to Iching, then by private houseboat for two days, and then overland in sedan chairs to Chenkuo. Though there were only six servants, we had a caravan of sixty-five servants and a forty-man escort, and throughout the whole journey had no accidents or unpleasant incidents of any kind. We were everywhere treated with the most eminent consideration by the most eminent educators of Japan.

The introduction into circulation of colored money of the United States bearing the medallion portrait of a chief magistrate of the republic occurred in this city recently, and is doubtless general throughout the country. It is a distinct innovation in the monetary history of this country, and is due to Mr. Roosevelt when he was President. New Orleans Picayune.

Take care of the new Lincoln pennies and the old dollars will continue to take care of themselves.

HOSTILE FORCE MARCHES ON BOSTON

Lands On Southern Coast of Massachusetts; Troops Called for Defense

GREAT GAME OF WAR IS NOW UNDER WAY

Decisive Battle Will Be Fought Next Week Between Rival Armies

BOSTON, Aug. 14.—When Governor Draper was "theoretically" started at 10 a.m. today with the news that a hostile force had landed on the southern coast of Massachusetts and was threatening the military safety of Boston, the most extensive game of mimic war that has ever been played in the Eastern States was fairly under way.

In accordance with the rules laid down by the War Department, Gov. Draper at once called upon Adjutant General Brigham to defend Boston against the threatened attack and 7000 troops were ordered to the front under the command of Brigadier-General Pew.

It was, of course, known to all parties that the attack from the force consisted of several companies of the United States Coast Artillery from the forts in and about New York and a number of regiments of militia from Connecticut and New Jersey and the District of Columbia under the command of Major-General Tasker Bliss, U.S. A.

Great Sham Battle

The sham battle which will be fought in Bristol and Plymouth counties next week between the blue army of defense and the regular army of attack, whose forces were assembled today, will demonstrate whether Massachusetts, and particularly Boston, is sufficiently safe against a foreign force.

It has already been demonstrated to the satisfaction of the military that no hostile fleet can successfully run past the forts in Boston harbor, and the object of the present maneuver is to ascertain whether such a force could successfully make a rear attack upon the city.

Wires All Cut

The rules of the present game provides that the attacking forces shall be landed from the transports under the supposition that no American battle fleet was so short of coal as to approach. The strength of the attacking force was to be determined by the number of men and the number of ships.

It was therefore General Pew's duty

today to assemble his army and locate the enemy by such means as would obtain in actual warfare. Although the "war" correspondents were requested not to give the exact location of the different regiments, it is not violating confidence to say that troops from all over the State were rushed to southeastern Massachusetts, and that the regimental battle line was from the shore of Bristol County and that the regiments from Connecticut, New York and New Jersey and the District of Columbia were expected to disembark before night.

General Wood Umpire

Major-General Wood, Commander of the Department of the East, is the chief umpire on the contest. General Wood arrived at New Bedford today on the steamer Moline from New York, and later in the day established his headquarters in Rochester, about ten miles from New Bedford.

In the course of the forenoon, unofficial dispatches received in this city brought the news that a large part of the invading army had landed somewhere upon the coast of Buzzards Bay and had started inland.

According to these dispatches the red coats came on the steamers Puritan, Pilgrim, Boston and City of Taunton and the army transports McClellan, Summer and Meade. The forces included cavalry, infantry, artillery corps and signals, some with horses and impedimenta.

Residents along the coast in great numbers watched the disembarkation of the "hostile" forces with intense interest.

JAPAN IS WINNING BRITAIN'S TRADE

Makes Serious Inroads In Yangtse River Business,
Says Chicago Broker

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 14.—"Japan is rapidly making serious inroads on England's trade up the Yangtse river," remarked James B. Wilbur, a banker of Chicago, who arrived today in the liner Siberia from an extended tour of the Far East.

Wilbur came to San Francisco for a visit some months ago, and, upon the advice of a friend from the Orient, went out to China, Formosa, Korea and Japan to have a look at the business conditions.

"Though Japan has suffered much from the Taku Maru boycott of the Chinese, whose end apparently is far off," Wilbur said, "Japan is making progress. Japan has fine vessels on the river, and is getting a wonderfully large amount of business, despite the efforts of the English.

The Koreans certainly know how to let the pants with the least possible amount of friction. The natives seem to believe that the Japanese are not working in their interests, but

Real Estate Men Say Farewell After Viewing Wonders of County

SIXTY AUTOS TAKE DELEGATES ON TOUR OF OAKLAND, ALAMEDA AND BERKELEY

Farewell Reception Is Held in Idora Park, Where Special Music Is Rendered in Honor of Visitors From All Parts of the State

ALTHOUGH the business session of the convention of the California State Realty Federation came to a close yesterday at noon, yet the social functions did not reach an end until last night about 11 o'clock, when the delegates to the convention and other realty men in other parts of the State who accompanied them and the local realty dealers bade one another good-bye, shook hands and promised to meet again at the next convention, which is to be held in San Jose in 1910, unless, in the meantime, good fortune or business should again bring them together.

The final paring took place, in the main at Idora Park last night, where, amid a crowd of pleasure seekers, there was a mutual interchange of good wishes and recognition that the convention had been the means of bringing congenial people together in social as well as in business interests.

In Carmichael's Honor

The gathering of the realty men at Idora last night was in honor of retiring President Carmichael of the Federation. It was attended not alone by realty, but also by other business men of the city who had become impressed with the ability which had characterized Carmichael in the performance of his duties as president of the Federation and by the fact that he had been a friend of Oakland and had taken occasion on several instances during the late session to give self-evident proof of the fact.

There was a general expression of the work of Carmichael given expression to by the visiting members as well as by those who belonged to the local realty organization and this was coupled with the hope that he would continue to be as staunch a supporter of the Federation in the future as he had been since its inception.

To Continue Work

Carmichael expressed himself in the strongest manner on the subject to the effect that he was determined to remain with the Federation until it would have a representation in every county in the State in which there was any business at all done on realty lines.

John Carmichael who placed Mayor Mott in his city in nomination for the position of president of the State organization, in doing so, he stated that when seen men at Mayor Mott could be deemed for the presidency of the Federation, and that the future success of the organization was assured. He reported that he would stand by the new management and was satisfied that the new president would be able to secure a number of new members from among the realty men on the other side of the bay and thus straighten out the misunderscoring which seems to exist between the dealers in San Francisco and the dealers in the other parts of the state.

Artistic Program

There was a special program rendered, last night at Idora Park by the James band in honor of the visiting delegates and the numbers were enjoyed to the utmost.

On the early train, this morning, the visitors will take their departure for their several homes bearing with them the kindly recollections of the hospitality of the business men of this community, the wonderful progress which this city is making and the great things which she is bound to accomplish in the future.

On Auto Excursion

At noon yesterday the convention of the California State Realty delegates came to a close and, at that time, there were waiting at the door of the hall sixty automobiles owned by residents of this city, the use of which had been donated for the purpose of giving the delegates to the convention a chance to see the marvelous improvement and development which have taken place in this city and vicinity in the past few years.

Some of the delegates had never been in this city before and were desirous of seeing the great improvements.

Moved Like Parade

It was with the keenest anticipation, therefore, that the visitors boarded the cars and started out on a tour which was intended to extend through this city, Berkeley, Piedmont, the towns between here and Hayward and Alameda.

There were sixty autos in the line and as they passed through this city they were greeted with cheers at many of the intersections.

The day was bright and the sun intensified the brilliance of the polished metal work on the dashings, cars, and really made the line one of the most spectacular displays of the kind which has ever been held in this city.

In each car was some representative of the visiting delegations who was able and willing to describe and explain the places of interest and the many developments within the limits of this city. When the autos reached Berkeley the lead was to be taken by representatives of the realty men of that city.

All Went On Trip

The line was formed on Webster street with the right resting near Fourteenth street. The signal was given for the start when there was not a delegate to the convention or other person who had been in attendance upon it, who was not provided with a seat in a car which was able to climb the steepest hill and cover distance at a clipping rate.

The route was a lengthy one and the journey was not brought to a close until 6 o'clock in the evening, when it was known that there had been more than sixty miles covered.

Entertained at Lunch

There were some delays, principally at Piedmont, where for an hour the excursionists were entertained at lunch, and at the Blue and Gold Brewery on Twenty-sixth street, where there was a collation served, which was greatly appreciated.

The line of march was west on Thirteenth street to Broadway, thence to Twelfth, thence to Lake, to Madison, Twelfth, Fallon, Lake, Durant, Webster and thence along the boulevard on the western side of Lake Merritt, while covering which the visitors were given an opportunity to see all the beauty spots and at the same time the improvements in and around Lake Merritt.

The excursionists then struck a section of Perry street, where the first grade was met, but all the machines made the ascent in an easy manner and without confusion of any kind. Thence the column traversed in succession Vernon, Twenty-sixth, Telegraph, Twenty-first, Market, Twenty-sixth streets, a second street to Twenty-first and Twelfth, Linden, Twenty-sixth again and so on to a halt in front of the Blue and Gold Brewery at that point.

There the tourists disembarked and entered one of the great apartments in one of the buildings of the plant, and there found waiting for them a splendid lunch which was eagerly discussed.

Tables Loaded

Several long tables were stretched in the place and covered with white spreads, and these were loaded down with hundreds of sandwiches of all kinds, while on adjoining tables there were hundreds of bottles of beer just fresh from the ice cold kegs which were awaiting the guests.

The walls of the place were decorated with numerous branches of oak leaves and clusters of hops, the latter also being fashioned into boutonnieres and intertwined with blue and gold ribbons, the whole being placed on the breasts of the guests by a corps of the attaches of the business offices of the concern.

The serving was also done by the attaches of the place and there was no person who did not have a sufficiency of meat and drink to cause him to feel in a complimentary mood for the liberality of the hosts.

Poet Speaks

While the refreshments were being discussed, Charles Alpers mounted a leg and delivered an address in verse which caused much merriment among the auditors in response to questions as to when he had prepared the matter, his answer was that he got the verses "out of thin air." Several of the ladies whom he had never seen before asked him if he could sing a rhyme at will and the jingle-maker declared that he could degrade upon anything or about any person and proved the fact in the satisfaction of the inquirers by grudging out stuff which set many of the listeners in a roar.

The lunch was served under the supervision of Carl Plaut, the president of the company, and at the close that gentleman was cheered lustily and with a will.

Enter Berkeley

The procession turned out to Adeline street and continued on that thoroughfare under the leadership of the committee from Berkeley until it entered Shattuck avenue and reached the heart of the university town at 1 o'clock sharp. It then, in succession, traversed University avenue, Oxford and Cedar streets, Seaside avenue, Ridge road, Highland and Euclid avenues, all length entering the grounds of the University of California by the north gate and thence rolling by various ways until it came to a stop at the Hearst Greek Theater, which was visited by the excursionists.

Then the cars resumed their way through the grounds and traversed College, Avenue, Dwight, Way, passing through the grounds of the State Institute for the Deaf, Dumb and Blind, thence through Claremont Court tract, Russell street, El Camino Real, the Uplands, Claremont avenue, Webster street, and several other thoroughfares until Telegraph avenue was reached. Then there was a journey southward to Forty-first street, to Broadway, to Moss avenue, Piedmont avenue and Vernal avenue to Piedmont Park.

There was an hour spent in discussing an elegant lunch, which was served in the beautiful and commodious Piedmont Cafe by Mr. Scharf, and which was enjoyed to the utmost.

Visit Art Gallery

At the conclusion of the luncheon, the strangers and their escorts visited the art gallery in the park as the guests of Charles D. Havens, and the greatest interest was manifested in the works of the artists of this and other countries which are to be found there.

Once more the autos were boarded, and along various highways the Foothill Boulevard was reached and over it the vehicles sped, every occupant speaking in praise of the liberality of the supervisors of Alameda county in providing such a thoroughfare, most of them declaring that they had never seen a better road in their lives.

In this manner Hayward was reached and the party sped through it, being cheered as they rolled along the principal thoroughfares.

Through Alameda

On the way home the San Leandro road was taken until Twenty-seventh avenue was met and that thoroughfare was followed until Alameda was reached and the autos passed through that city, using Central and Santa Clara avenues in the passage, the final approach to this city being made along Webster to Water street, thence to Broadway and thence to the headquarters of the federation at the corner of Broadway and Twelfth street, where there were highly appreciative expressions of the marvelous beauty of Oakland and the surrounding country. The party then broke up for the purpose of attending the reception in favor of ex-President Carmichael of the federation, which was given in Idora Park last night.

It is understood that the visitors left a number of articles in the auto after their absence, and persons finding such articles are requested to leave them at the headquarters of the Oakland Real Estate Association on the eighth floor of the First National Bank building, at Fourteenth street and San Pablo avenue.

EXPERTS LOOK OVER HARBOR FACILITIES

They View Waterfront to Plan Where Wharves Should Be Built

COL. HEUER TO MAKE A FORMAL REPORT

Strong Appeal for Bonds to Be Feature of Statement by Engineers

Members of the City Council, the Board of Works, City Engineer Turner and a number of other prominent citizens boarded the launch Dow No. 1 yesterday afternoon and made a complete inspection of the estuary from Park street bridge to the lighthouse at the end of Oakland mole.

Colonel Heuer, whom the city has engaged to render a consulting engineer's report relative to improvements to be made under the proposed bond issue, was also on board, and pointed out to members of the party where improvements should be made.

The members of the investigating party were M. T. Layne, Frank B. Biller, George Stetson, M. H. Gossman, M. B. Miller, W. B. Fawcett, E. C. Cooper, secretary to Governor Gillett; Edward J. Tyrell, secretary to the mayor; A. J. Burton and J. P. Montgomery, C. H. King and W. E. Gibson, the three last mentioned being from the Rivers and Harbor League. Assistant City Engineer P. F. Brown was also in attendance.

To Await Report

It is the intention of the investigating committee to base their recommendations to the people upon the report made to them by Colonel Heuer, who is recognized by the United States Government as one of the most capable engineers in the country.

City Attorney J. W. Stetson, who was on the trip today, had the following to say in regard to Oakland's proposed water front.

"While I am not an engineer, I listened closely while the different men discussed the matter pro and con, with Colonel Heuer, and I also asked many questions of this expert on harbors.

Should Issue Bonds

"I have come to the conclusion that Oakland should issue bonds enterprise and a bond issue that would give her a water front about four miles long. The discussion arose as to whether we should have a long wharf frontage for ships to dock broadside or to have a system of walls or teeth for the ships to dock at. Colonel Heuer pointed out certain advantages and disadvantages of the propositions, but did not declare himself for the one or the other in favor of either system.

"Of course, he will reserve his recommendations for a time and tender them in a more formal manner.

Second to None

"The members of the investigating committee learned many things about a harbor and I believe Oakland could have a bond issue to none if a bond issue is authorized.

"This same committee will meet at some later date and compare notes, then we shall go before the City Council and ask them to authorize a special election for a bond issue for a water front.

"I am not a technical authority on this matter, but I will say this. Oakland must move rapidly and gain docking facilities which will make the eyes of the manufacturing world look our way.

"We must show the business enterprise and finance kings that Oakland is a city where they can come and build and be assured that a progressive municipality will spend money to give them the harbor that they need.

Land to Work With

"We have the land to back up our harbor and can put up docks and warehouses that should astonish the commercial world.

"You can rest assured that the committee's report and Colonel Heuer's recommendations will be explicit enough to enlighten the public. Although I cannot say now what the body of our report will be, I can say that the ending of it will be a strong appeal to the residents of Oakland to bond the city for a sum large enough to build a proper water front.

Working Overtime

"I personally am working overtime to get all the facts. I can and will certainly make them known in a short time.

"The trip about the front today was a very instructive one for all who made it even though it will bear no fruit for several weeks. By this I mean that a formal report will be made until the matter is thoroughly threshed out."

GALLS HALT ON POLICE TACTICS

Chief Wilson Orders Sleuths to Cease the Affronting of Women On Street

Chief of Police Adelbert Wilson, in reference to the arrest of women suspected of being "street walkers," says that he has issued positive orders that no policemen detailed on this work shall make any remarks to women unless they are first spoken to him. The chief is now making an investigation of several cases wherein the police officer making the arrest is alleged to have exceeded his authority.

"Strict orders have been issued that police officers must not speak to any woman first or molest any woman passing by," says Wilson. "As a matter of common courtesy, however, it is the right of a police officer or any other individual, I am now investigating several cases wherein police officers are alleged to have made advances. Thus far the facts would tend to show that the police officer was justified. In event, however, that it is determined that the liberty of a woman was interfered with a strict reprimand will be made.

"The police of this department is not to harass any innocent person, but merely to keep the streets free from objectionable characters."

Our Complete Corset Display

To talk of a "complete" Corset display in these days of ever-changing fashions is to assume a great deal. We believe, however, that we are justified in using the heading to this item.

The combination of useful and scientific ideas that is found in the makes of corsets that we carry is so comprehensive that there is not a figure that we cannot fit to perfection. Our leading lines are "Kabo," "La Reve," "Thomson's Glove-Fitting," "Helene," and "Royal Worcester," and "W. B."—Grades at

Right to the Point

A new season is fast approaching and its fashion necessities are arriving daily.

We claim that everything sold in this store is as near RIGHT as human agency can make it.

We ask you to test our claim, going into the quality, variety, style, value and store methods as critically as possible.

The more this is done, the greater will be our volume of business this season and in the seasons that are to come.

Notable Values in New Hosiery at 50c pr

The manager of this department says that he can show the best-selected assortment of fifty-cent Stockings that can be found on this coast.

"For the past three months," he said, "I've been giving special attention to the buying of Hosiery to sell at Fifty Cents a pair. Plain lisle, lace patterns, lace boot—a great range of patterns and not a shade missing. But after all, their durability is their great feature."

New Flannelette

A regular  $12\frac{1}{2}$ c value, special at  $8\frac{1}{3}$ c yd

This is a good, heavy, fleece-back Flannelette, in new and striking designs. The right thing for kimonas, sacques and wrappers. A big value at .....  $8\frac{1}{3}$ c yard

Silk Petticoat Novelties

—the first of the new season

We can afford to use the word "novelty" very freely in connection with the handsome Taffeta Petticoats that have just reached here.

Made of excellent quality of taffeta, in many new shades, by tailors who evidently know their business.

An entirely new effect is a deep flounce with tucked ruffles alternating with Van Dyke plaited points. Another style has four ruffles with groups of pin tucks between; and there are many more pleasing ideas—

A Season of Broadcloth

Broadcloth is to fashion what wheat is to the world's support. The return this season to strictly tailored models and a consequent demand for broadcloth was contemplated by us. No better stock will be found anywhere, and in values we certainly lead. Among others—

All-Wool Chiffon Broadcloths, $1.50 yard

One of these numbers is an all-wool chiffon finished, high lustre, of the right weight for tailored suits or princess gowns, in the following shades: Cream, pearl, taupe, smoke, reseda, champagne, tan, delit, old rose, amethyst, cattawa, fern, raspberry, olive, golden brown, seal, royal, navy, reseda, gold brown, seal brown, royal, navy, black, and all pastel shades.

Our stock of broadcloths includes all grades from $1.00 to $3.00 Yd.

New Broadcloths, $2.50 yard

A higher grade in heavier weight. Have sold considerable of this cloth for uniform military capes that are so popular at this time. This fabric is thoroughly sponged and shrunk, ready for the needle; will not spot or shrink; is 54 inches wide; shown in the following shades: Pearl, smoke, tan, champ, wistaria, artichoke, olive, myrtle, raisin, old rose, wine, cardinal, mulberry, reseda, gold brown, seal brown, royal, navy, black, and all pastel shades.

Visit Our Curtain and Drapery Section

This is the time when we are all fixing up our homes and apartments for the stay-at-home period. It means new Curtains, Portieres, Couch Covers and Draperies. A very moderate expenditure along these lines will often be repaid many times by the improved appearance of a room. Just one instance—a new Couch Cover makes practically a new lounge.

Monday you will find a new lot of plain, hemstitched Scrim Curtains, full size, good material—$1.35 pr

Complete line of Nottingham, French Net, Battenberg and Irish Point Curtains priced from ..... 65c to $27.50 pr

New and right Draperies for every purpose.

TOWN TO CONTEST STREET CONTROL

Railroad Refuses to Obey Paving Mandate—Modesto Is Ready for Fight

MODESTO, Aug. 14.—Whether the ownership of that portion of the streets of Modesto which cross the reservation of the Southern Pacific railroad through town is vested in the railroad company or in the city itself is the question which will be tested here.

In a recent letter to the city from the division superintendent, attention was called to the fact that certain portions of streets belonged to the railroad company and therefore the city authorities had no right to order paving done on such streets without first consulting the wishes of the corporation's managers.

The letter went on to say that the corporation had plans for the paving of streets but would attend to the matter in their own way and at their own convenience. Trustees and citizens of Modesto at once became indignant and ordered the paving to be done according to the regular ordinance, treating the railroad the same as other property owners.

Following action taken at the last trustees' meeting regarding the opening of F street, the board today instructed Marshal Pointer to clear away all obstructions belonging to the railroad company, including a fence on the west side of the track, and to open that portion of the street to public traffic.

No trouble is expected from the railroad over the question of ownership, as it is recognized that street ownership is vested in the city government. It is the intention of the board to make a case of this matter if necessary to establish the fact that Modesto owns and controls her own streets.

SOLDIER SMITH IS VICTIM OF SMITHS

Private John F. Smith, U. S. A., was arrested yesterday in this city by Private A. B. Smith on a charge of being a deserter and a drunkard. Private A. B. Smith was confined to Sergeant Major H. B. Smith because Smiths discussed the case and decided that the arrested Smith was not a deserter. As Major Smith took one of the Smiths to the guardhouse, while the other Smiths returned to his duties in Oakland.

AUTHOR DODGES POLL TAX SPOOK

Stepson of Robert Lewis Stevenson Wakes Wroth Over Assessment

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 14.—At the office of the Assessor a note was recently received from Lloyd Osbourne, collaborator and stepson of the late Robert Louis Stevenson, and, since the latter's death, successful in literature on his own account, protesting against being called on to pay $2 poll tax, or, at all events, against being obliged to pay an extra dollar, proposed to be collected as penalty for delinquency.

In his note, which was dated at the Lams Club, New York, Osbourne complained that he received warning of the impending delinquency at so late a date that he had but two days left in

COURT REFUSES TO RELEASE CONSTABLES

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 14.—The Court of Appeals today denied the habeas corpus application of J. C. Cornean, Charles Benjamin, Martin Minkowitz and Frank Henry, deputy constables who were indicted in contempt of Judge Davis' court and sentenced by him to five days in jail.

The officers have already remained two days in the county jail. Their attorneys will try another procedure in an effort to secure their release. The constables created a disturbance in the ante-room of the court.

WILL SPEAK ON LONDON.
"Land of the Great Metropolis," is the title of an address to be delivered by Dr. John Buchan in West Hall, Unitarian Church, Fourteenth and Castro streets, this evening. The first of a series of Sunday evening lectures that have been sponsored by the Rev. William Day Simonds, pastor of the church, which to send amount due to this city, and he, therefore, considered the demand for the delinquency penalty highly unjust. He added, also, that he had not a legal residence in this city sufficiently lately to make the collection of any poll tax proper. On the latter ground the Assessor ordered the charge against the novelist to be cancelled.

SACRED HEART CONVENT TO RESUME STUDIES

The College of the Holy Names, formerly known as Convent of Our Lady of the Sacred Heart, will resume studies August 30. This institution was founded in 1868 by the Sisters of the Holy Names of Jesus and Mary, situated on the borders of Lake Merritt, Oakland, Cal.

Don Nicholas Covarrubias Chosen to Impersonate
Don Gaspar de Portola

THE KNAVE

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 14.—Well, they've taken my candidate—our candidate—for Don Gaspar de Portola. The committee has decided that Don Nicholas Covarrubias is the ideal man for the place. Perish your Ned Greenways, Frank Mathieus, Ned Hamiltons, Alain Poileks, Dick Hotalings, and the rest. Here we have a real one.

The Portola game is being excellently well played. The selection of Miss Bogue as Queen was a stroke of genius. Plainly Miss Bogue is not the most beautiful woman in San Francisco. But she has beauty enough—and beyond that she has poise and brains and dash. Hers is a name to conjure with, and she will reign at the fiesta, where some ox-eyed beauty would merely pose.

And now comes the selection of Don Nicholas for the role of Don Gaspar. He will be just the sort of caballero that the imagination pictures in the heroic days of Spain, riding over the adventurous California hills. He will be Don Gaspar to the life.

In the first place, he looks the Conquistador. He would have been a great companion for Cortez and Alvarado, Cristobal de Olid and the immortal Bernal Diaz del Castillo. Heroic in size and mein, he sits a horse like a centaur. No man in California can rein a riding animal better than he can. I fancy I see him backing his mount from the ferry to Van Ness, disdaining to ride as less kingly men can ride.

And he knows accurately the customs and practices of the fiesta revels. He has been brought up to be fiesta king. In the old days of Los Angeles, before the nickel-chaser and the one-lunger, the awful Iowan, and the bleeding Kansan, drove out Poesy and Romance, Don Nicholas was always the festival king, whether the celebration was that of the fifth of May, the Fourth of July or the Fall of the Bastile—and in those days the Mexican, American and French holidays were impartially celebrated. Always Don Nicholas shone—always he was the most knightly of all the men.

There will be no modern mincing in his kingship. He will be the free-handed caballero of the olden days, keeping a true fiesta fun afoot all the time. Others may make the speeches and turn the phrases, but he will give the zest to the revel and be the real Gaspar de Portola.

Out of the great Bohemian Club midsummer jinks—a ceremony voted by all the members the greatest that the brilliant club has ever known—has come a turn of repartee in which our old friend, Ned Greenway, didn't get the better of the exchange. Among the new members is Frank Moroney, who has a wit that has been quickened by the attrition at "The Family." Greenway met him one morning with:

"Good morning, Mr. Mahoney!"

"Good morning, Mr. Greenwood!" was the instant response.

"Greenway, sir!"

"Moroney, sir!"

Among the Easterners who left for home today was Val Heaton, one of the merry men of Lambs' Club in New York. He came out on a pilgrimage to the mid-summer high jinks, and has been much entertained at the Bohemia Club and "The Family." He goes back with his eyes hanging out on stems over California genius. This is how he put it to me:

"I have been brought up with bright professional men—men who can tell stories, sing songs and assume characters. But the rest of us listened to them and took no part. We were the audience."

"But here in California a man gets up and sings a song, and sings it so I can't keep back the tears. Then they tell me he sells stocks and bonds by day, and just sings for the fun of the thing. Another man jumps into a marvelous piece of mimicry, and I find he is the manager of a great estate. An orator starts the chills in my marrow—and, behold, he is at the head of a corporation, or a working newspaper man. A splendid actor pleads cases by day. A comedian is on the highest bench."

"I never have known such versatile men, and I never have had so good a time."

Our Board of Works is in another of its characteristic mix-ups. It seems fated to botch everything it touches, and now it has given a set-back to the auxiliary water system that is making the progressives grit their teeth with impotent rage.

The charter flatly says that for a contract to be legal it must be awarded within twenty days of the time of the opening of bids. That ought to be plain enough for a board of schoolboys. But our Board of Works cannot seem to grasp the meaning of such plain language.

A little while ago it opened bids for the big valves for the high pressure system. An Eastern firm was far and away the lowest bidder. Its valves were tested and everybody supposed the contract was cinched. But the board dilly-dallied, backed and filled, and finally awarded the contract to a local firm for something more than $5,000 above the Eastern bid.

There was no special kick, as the award would keep the work at home instead of sending it to Pittsburgh. But when the local firm began looking into the matter it discovered it had been given a badly gilded gold brick. Its contract wouldn't stand the slightest attack. It wasn't a legal contract at all. That stupid Board of Works had waited until long after the twenty-day time limit after opening bids had expired. Its other procedure was almost as glaringly faulty.

So now, because of this stupidity, there will probably be a necessity for advertising for bids for those valves again, with a consequent long delay in the establishment of the system that is to bring down insurance rates and give the city real protection from another general fire.

The Hotel Rafael is to close on the 20th. The guests have been notified to quit on that date. Manager Holmes says he has lost $10,000 and cannot stand the drain on his purse any longer. His venture has fizzled out.

Now that's all because of an effort to introduce drytown methods in a wet burg. It shows that our northern fashionables are not in sympathy with Southern California teetotalism.

Holmes was a success—a great success—in Pasadena. There he ran the great Hotel Green and became accustomed to the sly ways of getting a sly drink in the prohibition city. So when he took charge of the Hotel Rafael and told how he was going to make it a great social and financial success, he tried to put into practice his Pasadena methods.

The band had been accustomed to playing on the clubhouse balcony. People gathered at the band and sipped late. But Holmes said he didn't want the music at the clubhouse. He didn't want to feature that clubhouse at all. In fact, he wished to minimize the clubhouse and all it stood for. He admitted it was a money-maker, but he didn't care for that sort of money.

But the northern fashionables yearned for the sipping nights and the gay life of that clubhouse, and though Holmes got Ned Greenway to help out as an attraction for fashionables, the hotel wouldn't pay on any such Pasadena basis. So it is to close on the 20th, and Holmes is pocketing his loss of $10,000 with the best possible face. Society in the north of California is not yet ready for prohibition.

Those of us who have come to regard Burlingame as a sort of society Mecca, or holy of holies, find it hard to understand the attitude of Menlo Park toward her northern neighbor. For Menlo regards, and has long regarded, Burlingame as upstart and parvenu. Menlo was a recognized social center when Burlingame was a waste. Menlo regards many of the Blingum fortunes as sudden and new. The culture of the more northerly settlement is considered merely the culture of the surface.

To be sure, Burlingame has shone through her club—not a very exclusive club, say the Menlo people, but admittedly a lively one. Menlo has had her club, to be sure, but it has had no such quarters as that at Burlingame. Its links have not been as good and it had no polo field.

But now we are told that Menlo is to build a magnificent clubhouse and that she will make her golf and country club known throughout the land for its cuisine, service, links and polo ground. This move is considered a declaration of open war by old, conservative Menlo against newer and livelier Burlingame. It is to be a contest for recognition in leadership.

"Menlo will win, as sure as fate," says Ned Greenway, and he ought to know.

But it will be a contest to be watched with great interest by the outsiders, and it is likely to lead to some notable entertainments that will recall the days of old Californian hospitality, when a social function was a revel rather than a small-and-early.

Two promising subordinates in the Southern Pacific passenger department have been found by their superiors to be embezzlers for an aggregate of $5000. The relatives of the young men, who have thus ruined their careers with the big railroad, are collecting money to reimburse the National Surety Company, which bonded them and which had to pay the amount of the theft to the railroad. If they succeed in doing so, the Surety Company and the railroad are not to arrest and prosecute them. Owing to the fact that both are married men and have good family connections, the companies hope they can succeed in paying back what they stole and then go elsewhere and try to make amends by leading honest lives. It is a great shock to the officials who trusted and promoted this couple to find that their confidence was badly misplaced.

Owners of big office buildings must be on a keen hunt for tenants, judging from a story I heard yesterday. There are two big office structures on Montgomery street. In one of them there is a tenant who leases an entire floor. Hearing that he wanted more room, the owner of the other building offered him a larger floor. He replied that while it was just what he wanted he could not take it because he had a lease to run sometime where he was.

"I'll pay your expenses for moving and give you a bond to protect you against any suit for damages that may be brought for having broken your lease," tempted the enterprising landlord.

The tenant fell to this temptation for a ten-year lease and now the old landlord is up in arms and has his lawyer preparing papers in a damage suit for the broken lease.

Real estate prices and rates on loans are slowly but surely getting back to the normal. Large loans are now being made by the banks at 5½ and 6 per cent net as against 8 per cent, which latter rate obtained but a comparatively short time back. A loan of $800,000, recently made by one of the banks on Market-street property, is understood to have been at the rate of 5½ per cent net. Men with money are loaning it through the banks rather than investing it in various enterprises themselves. This is not regarded as a good condition from a business viewpoint, but money is proverbially timid and seeks security in times of financial stress rather than large returns on investments that might contain an element of risk.

Rents of business properties have been falling, and in some instances fairly tumbling. In certain blocks on Montgomery street the rents have been cut in two, and even at that reduction the owners hesitate to collect them for fear the tenants will give notice of removal.

The Phelan building is a notable and conspicuous instance of reduction in rentals, although an attempt has been made to hush up the current reports to that effect. The offices in the structure were only about one-third rented, and it is said that the Eastern insurance company holding a mortgage of $2,000,000 upon it, together with an additional mortgage of $500,000 re-enforced by outside securities, stepped in and ordered the reduction in rentals made at once, notwithstanding the protest of the owner.

That Eastern capital is exacting in its conditions is indicated by the story that the insurance concern loaning $2,500,000 on the Phelan Market-street property had it carefully surveyed before making the loan, and again caused it to be surveyed after the structure was completed, just to see that all was there that they had made the loan on. The insurance concern also withheld a considerable sum in order to be able to meet mechanics' liens and other claims that might arise against the property.

It is predicted by conservative real estate men that there will be a gradual but positive reduction in rentals until they reach a point that will return owners 4 per cent net on the actual value of their properties. Such is the condition in Eastern cities, and that it will also obtain in San Francisco is believed by those who have been watching the trend of the times in relation to realty. While owners may not be satisfied with that percentage of return on their investments, it is argued that many men in commercial pursuits are making no more than that, and a more conservative policy will have to be adopted by realty investors as against the course that might be regarded as merely speculative.

It has been estimated that there were 10,000 houses and flats vacant in this city during the early summer months. These are filling up somewhat because of the demand by those returning from their outings in the country. Rents of new flats and apartments in the new houses of that name are still high, $10 and $12 a room being charged for those having all modern improvements, including running ice water, steam heat, dummy waiters, and every convenience at hand, so that nothing is left for the housewife to do but cook the dinner.

The rentals of old flats have been materially reduced. Where after the fire they were commanding $8 and $10, and even $12, a room they are now being let for $5 a room, and occasionally less, with indications of still further reductions.

The apartment house investment is regarded by realty men as having been overdone, some sections of the city having whole rows of them that are far from full of tenants. This overbuilding of apartment houses is particularly noticeable just outside the line of the fire limits, where the restrictions in regard to material used are not so onerous as within the fire line.

The other day at a special election of I. W. Hellman's Union Trust Company, Charles Du Parc was promoted from second to first assistant cashier. This young man is a French count in his own right and comes from a family of distinguished lineage. Du Parc is the family name and the young man has been in this country working for the Hellmans for about ten years. Of fine address, portly manners, educated, modest and ambitious, those who know him and what he is commend him for his industry, his quiet habits and democratic tastes. On coming to the United States he determined to drop his title and make his way in business and society on his own merits. This he has succeeded in doing in a most successful way and he does not wish or like to be called count except by relatives or friends from France who come across his path now and again. Having decided upon banking as a career in the United States, Mr. Du Parc has worked faithfully in the various positions he has held and is looked upon as a promising man in the San Francisco banking field.

It is a long throw from the Hotel Del Monte, where she and her titled husband were hard pressed for money, to a seat at King Edward's table as one of the intimates of his social set. But such has been the accomplishment of the Duchess of Manchester, who was Miss Zimmerman of Cincinnati. Last Sunday's cable news stated that at a recent dinner party King Edward nearly choked. The Duchess of Manchester, who was a guest, was the only one present who dared to vigorously hit His Majesty on the back and thus relieve him. About fourteen years ago the Duke of Manchester was not in high favor with his just but hard-fisted father-in-law, Eugene Zimmerman, a Cincinnati railway magnate. The latter had declined to pay the Duke's debts and had refused to have him come to Cincinnati when he and his wife first visited this country after their marriage in London in the presence of the bride's aunt and his relatives. At that time the Duke was being sued in London for breach of promise and had the reputation of being a gay blade and owing everybody. On reaching New York with his duchess, he wrote for Hearst's newspapers for awhile. Appeals from his child finally caused the Cincinnati man to arrange to meet her and her duke at the Hotel Del Monte. They arrived first on the coast and a week later Zimmerman quietly put in an appearance in a private car. E. O. McCormick, who was then with the Southern Pacific here, arranged the details of the family conference, he being an old friend of the father. It was at that meeting that the two men first became friendly and the Zimmerman purse strings were loosened to meet the demands of the Duke and Duchess on the Manchester estates in Ireland and for a London bank. He has been liberal to them ever since that conference.

Mention of King Edward's name makes pertinent the comments of two prominent bankers here about the New York report to the effect that the English sovereign through the friendly tip of J. Pierpont Morgan has just been enabled to make a profit of a million dollars on his investment in steel common. These bankers assert that it is well known that King Edward, through the advice of men like Sir Ernest Cassell and the latter's American connections, has large investments in the securities of this country. They state it is an open secret that he cleared a very large profit about three years ago in Union and Southern Pacific common stock when E. H. Harriman put the former on a 10 per cent dividend-paying basis and the latter on a 6 per cent. The King is supposed to have made his Union and Southern Pacific stock investments on the advice given Sir Ernest Cassell, his financial agent, by Jacob H. Schiff, the head man of Kuhn, Loebs & Co. of New York, and who, with John D. Rockefeller, is the principal man behind E. H. Harriman in his various railroad deals.

I hear that Mr. and Mrs. Walter S. Hobart have patched up their differences and decided to go to housekeeping again in San Mateo county in the fall. Meanwhile Mrs. Hobart and her children will remain in Marin county with her brother and married sister. This is the explanation of why Hobart, that gay Blingumite and reckless automobilist, is building a home in a delightful spot down on the peninsula. The house is to be on the bungalow style and will be very modest in pretensions as compared with the house and grounds he sold in the same neighborhood several years before the fire to Charles Clark, the son of Senator W. A. Clark of Montana, who married one of the Tobin girls. If all reports are true Hobart is not financially as strong as he was ten years ago and has to live on a more economical scale than of yore. Those who say they know assert that Hobart has made all sorts of promises to his better half not to live at such high pressure as has been his wont, and to emulate some of the Four Hundred who do not allow the distractions of wealth and society to interfere with commendable domestic duties. Friends have advised the son of the Hobart family to go to work at something as the best preventive for keeping out of an annoying limelight.

The new owner of the former Hobart mansion in San Mateo, Charles Clark, is said to think his Cross-like father, Senator W. A. Clark, is not as liberal with him as he could readily afford to be. He is backed up in this opinion by his wife and the rest of the Tobins. By his two marriages—the first wife died—Charles Clark has never had a son. W. A. Clark, Jr., and Charles were told by their father about eight years ago that the first of them that should have a son to perpetuate the family name would always remain high in his favor, and that the infant should immediately have settled on it with its father as its guardian a million dollars. W. A. Jr. had a son about two years later. It is alive and hearty and still known as the million dollar baby. W. A., Jr., has had little to do with San Francisco society and is said to be closer to the father in the management of the latter's large interests than the son living at San Mateo.

The Frank O. Lowdens of Chicago are not to visit the F. J. Carolans at their San Mateo country seat this summer, after all. They are going to Europe on account of Congressman Lowden's health. Mrs. Lowden is a sister of Mrs. Carolan. Lowden, who is a member of the Republican National Committee, and of the latter's executive committee, has taken a step which is causing George A. Knight and other members of the national committee to wonder if it can be made to stick. Lowden has designated United States Senator Lorimer of Illinois to act as his proxy on the committee during his prolonged absence. Had he resigned, the vacancy would be filled by the chairman of the national committee, whose power to appoint has been several times disputed, but whose designation has never been overcome. It is said there is speculation already as to who ex-Governor Hill of Maine, who is acting chairman upon the designation of Postmaster General Hitchcock, would appoint to succeed Mr. Lowden, the choice for senator of a combination arranged between Democrats and Republicans, to act as the national representative of the Republican organization of Illinois.

Speaking of will contests calls up much gossip among members of the bar about the Supreme Court's recent decision declaring Adolph Sutro's will void. The court had that case under consideration for nineteen months. The will created a trust for charity and the court declared it null and void because of its vagueness. Prominent lawyers, not with any intention of making unfriendly criticisms, note what they say is a fact, that in making this decision the court has swung away from following the decision of the United States Supreme Court and the Supreme Court of Massachusetts in like cases and has been influenced by decisions of the supreme courts of states such as New York and Michigan. In their opinion the modern legal doctrine of charitable trusts had its origin with the charitable statutes for schools, free schools, etc., of Queen Elizabeth's reign, and that the decisions of Massachusetts and the federal judiciary are more in consonance with that doctrine and the Elizabethan statutes than the New York and Michigan decisions. Having denied a rehearing of the Sutro decision, the action of the Supreme Court is notice to all who seek to make wills creating trusts for charity that they must make their trust provisions in plain, definite language, specifying in detail the exact purposes intended.

Carlton C. Crane, the Alameda county land owner and a prominent railroad agent in this city, seems to have attained the impossible the other day. Calling at the office of a busy doctor to fit him out with tickets for his family, Crane says he encountered a whole roomful of patients, and seated among them while waiting his turn to see the physician was entertained all the time. "Three or four women," he says, "were facing me across the room. Every one seemed to be glaring right at me and saying, 'Whatchuh doin' up here to see my doctor?' Another woman, the kind that brags about her ailments, was looking at me and thinking: 'Here you are ahead of me, and I'll have to wait on you. You haven't got near as much the matter with you as I have.' Then, there was a man who seemed to be greatly disgusted that I was going to a doctor. 'You great big fat scamp,' he seemed to be saying, 'you don't need any medicine. All you need is to go to work. Why don't you go to work, and not be hanging around here?' Honestly, there wasn't a person in the room, man or woman, who looked as if he or she thought I had the least bit of right to be there."

Ex-Convict Gordon, who has figured so conspicuously in the recent infelicities of the family of Major John W. Tompkins, former chief of police of Oakland and former warden of San Quentin prison, may yet serve another term in State prison by reason of his writing propensities. It was while he was in San Quentin, paying the penalty for the part he played as "Jim the Penman," that Gordon became a tutor in the Tompkins family, and the relation resulted in the disrupting of that household.

And now Gordon is reported to be at his old game again. After his release from San Quentin he purchased a suit of clothes from a San Francisco firm. Gordon was unknown to the concern, and this attracted no attention and excited no comment, as it was but one of many similar transactions had daily.

A short time after this incident Gordon called at the store and looked at some goods with a view to having a suit of clothes made to order. He was shown some material and said that he would come in a day or two later with his wife, whom he wished to select the goods. When he visited the place of business again he was accompanied by a handsome woman, to whom he referred as "my wife." The two selected the pattern and Gordon was measured for the suit. He remarked that he supposed that a deposit would be required, and when informed that such was the custom he gave the firm an order on a Los Angeles concern for $25 and asked that he be returned $15, leaving the balance as a deposit on the suit. He was told that a deposit of $15 would be required, or that there happened to be $10 in the cash drawer, and the latter sum was given him. The handsome woman who had assisted in the selection of the pattern for the suit took no part in the subsequent money transaction, and when it was concluded the pair left the store together. It was when Gordon indorsed the order for $25 that attention was first attracted to him as having the same name as the ex-convict.

When an effort was made to collect the order on Los Angeles it was found to be of no value. The clothing firm will probably prosecute Gordon for the crime of obtaining money under false pretenses, and forgery may be added to the charges to which the ex-convict will have to answer.

Pat Lannon, hale, hearty and 70, and who, for years, with Editor Goodwin owned the Salt Lake Tribune, is visiting old friends in the city. Lannon was a butcher in San Francisco years ago and the late Con O'Connor, whose children have long been in society, was a carpenter then and built his first butcher shop for him at Mission and Fremont streets. Lannon finally went to Virginia City, where he met the late John W. Mackay and formed a friendship which only the death of the latter broke. Mackay left Nevada and founded an $80,000,000 telegraph and cable system. Lannon went to Salt Lake and when it was dangerous to do so fought the Mormons in their stronghold. His paper did much to arouse the sentiment of the country against polygamy, which finally resulted in the passage by Congress of the Edmunds act. Lannon talks interestingly about Mackay's liking for boxing as an exercise, his sympathy and good deeds for unfortunate women and his stern sense of right and justice without in any way being goody-goody. Lannon is now in the retired class and owns a beautiful country place in Southern California. He has the southern idea of things now and says Los Angeles by natural growth and the incorporation of surrounding towns will in a year or two run close with San Francisco in population.

But he is not a knocker, like many of the Los Angeles tribe. He realizes that San Francisco will always be the great metropolis of the state and coast. He was not among the Southerners who told the Elks recently who were coming north to visit San Francisco en route home that our summers were mostly rainy, the sun's bright face a rare sight and an automobile a thing almost unheard of.

Archbishop Riordan and other prominent members of the Catholic clergy here regret to hear of the critical illness of the justly famous Brother Ambrose, known nationally for his poems and dramas and one of the most gifted of the Christian Brothers' order. It is said thousands of students in the colleges and schools throughout the country have acted in the plays created by Brother Ambrose. At the World's Fair in Chicago he received a prize for one of his productions, entitled "Satan in Arms Against Columbus." Most of his plays and poems have been published. Of poems, for which he is most generally known, "Rosalind Fay; an Idylle of the South," has attracted particular attention. It was published in 1906. The poem is in blank verse. The plot is laid in the midst of the civil war and the yellow fever period of the South. Brother Ambrose is fifty years old. He was born in New Orleans, his family name being Moise. Of his family several have distinguished themselves besides Brother Ambrose. The brother now dead was one of the most famous judges of the South. Another brother is a leading attorney of New Orleans, and another is a priest.

Governor F. A. Benson of Oregon, who is also secretary of state, has from his California vacation retreat here sent a letter home which will clear the Oregon political atmosphere. In it he states he is not to be a gubernatorial candidate in 1910, but wants a renomination on the Republican ticket for secretary of state. In Oregon there is no office of lieutenant governor, so when Governor Chamberlain was recently elected to the United States Senate, Benson had to step into the office of governor and attend to its duties as well as those of secretary of state.

With Governor Benson an avowed candidate for secretary of state, it is expected that the other Republicans who aspired to that office will withdraw from the contest. The incumbent of the office is completing his first term and he believes the record he has made commends him to a second term, which in the past quite invariably has been accorded his predecessors. He says there are already nine Republicans in the field as candidates for chief executive of the state.

Since the exposure of the postage stamp primary of Rudolph Spreckels and Gumshoe Burns, that combination have devoted their political efforts, in the main, to boosting that wing of the Democracy opposed to Gavin McNab and having Ralph McLellan as their candidate for Mayor. McLellan has received large financial aid, and in political circles its source is said to be Spreckels. In return for this money support McLellan and his associates are expected to do all they can to secure the Democratic primary nomination for Francis J. Heney for District Attorney.

It is doubtful if this game succeeds, notwithstanding the large sums of money that are being expended to develop it, for the McNab wing of the Democracy, having named no candidate of their own for District Attorney, are actively contributing their efforts to securing the Democratic nomination for Charles M. Fickert, the Republican and Citizens' Committee candidate.

The indications are that the primary will probably reduce the candidates for the office of District Attorney to Charles M. Fickert and H. B. Weaver, the Socialist, but as the latter party has but 1368 registered voters in this city, their choice, of course, cuts no material figure. The Good Government League is still seeking to put Heney before the public at the November election by petition and the Heney Club recently put out its banner sign on the Spreckels-Phelan, otherwise the Lick, building, on Montgomery street. The Goo Goos are still credited with a desire to run Phelan for Mayor in conjunction with Heney for the criminal law office of the city.

The outlook for the primary is that it will also, by process of elimination, reduce the candidates for Mayor to William Crocker, the planing mill man, on the Republican end; Dr. T. B. W. Leland on the Democratic side; P. H. McCarthy in the Union Labor corner, and William McDevitt the Socialist.

Then will come the long, hard pull, or tug-of-war, between the political parties for victory at the general election in November. As the Republican party has 47,945 registered voters to the Democrats 17,632 and the Union Labor party 10,546, there should be no question in respect to the outcome.

Next Tuesday San Francisco will hold its first preliminary election under the new direct primary law. The result will give a clearer line on the standing of the candidates for municipal office with the citizens than has heretofore obtained, and from that day on there will be a straightforward contest between the chosen nominees of the respective political parties rather than a scramble of a large field of aspirants for municipal place, most of whom are unknown to the majority of the electors.

Thus far the primary law has proven the reverse of what was claimed for the measure by its proponents in this city. Instead of contributing to the selection of the best citizens to fill the various municipal offices, it has been the medium by which the self-seekers have sought to foist themselves upon the public. The threadbare campaign cry of "Let the office seek the man and not the man the office," is reversed under the direct primary law, and, with few exceptions, it is only those who push themselves to the fore who are to be found in the long lists of party candidates for nominations next Tuesday.

One peculiar shipment through the port of San Francisco is ginseng for China. The shipments are in large volume and it is said many farmers in states like Missouri and Michigan make as high as $1000 an acre in profit raising these roots for the Chinese market.

It has often been asserted that, next to tea, ginseng is the most celebrated plant in all the Orient. It may well be termed the cure-all, as the Chinese have a wonderful faith in its curative and strengthening properties, for which reason it has been styled the "cinchona of China." It is considered to be a cure for fevers and weaknesses of all sorts, the chief and most costly medicine. According to Pacific Mail officials it would be impossible accurately to price ginseng. Some wild roots have been known to realize their weight in gold, while the cultivated is purchased for from fifty cents a pound up. Speaking generally, I am informed that the present average prices are for the best, $12 per pound; fair, $6.50, and ordinary, 50 cents to $1 per pound. Japan sends to China the cheapest ginseng, a great deal of which is used to adulterate the better Korean. The value and quality of the root of the four principal producing countries ranks as follows: Manchuria, Korea, America and Japan. Prices often vary, according to the manner of clarifying. Some Chinese provinces prefer it white, others a reddish, and still others a yellowish tinge.

"Our state being a 'dry' one, we are looking elsewhere than to whisky and beer for tax revenue," remarked Dr. Charles L. Martin of Atlanta, Ga., at the Fairmont hotel last night. "If the Georgia legislature," he went on to say, "incorporates into the general tax bill all the provisions introduced by the members, it soon will be nearly as hard to get a drink of soda water in the state as it is now to get a drink of whisky. Face to face with a deficit and with salaries and bills unpaid, the solons are grubbing desperately to find revenue producers. Since the advent of prohibition the soft drink industry has become the biggest thing in the state. Hence it offers the easiest solution of the problem. Here are some of the tax clauses proposed by the legislature: Five dollars a year upon each faucet of a soda water fountain; $500 a year for each manufacturer of carbonated water; $25 per year upon each bottling machine in the state; a revenue stamp costing five cents for each gallon of syrup or tincture or extract manufactured or sold. All of these taxes are in addition to the tax levied by the cities, towns and villages in which the dealers reside, and these towns have not overlooked the soft drink dealers in their plans for raising revenues. These revenues, too, are in addition to certain specific taxes which have been directed against certain big manufacturers of well known bottled drinks."

Waiters in San Francisco's first-class hotels and restaurants probably more than any other class of people in town are discussing the recent action of the convention of the National Travelers' Association in Chicago in adopting a strong resolution against "tipping." In the establishments mentioned waiters get $2 a day in wages and make from $1 to $3 a day in tips. Some enthusiast has estimated that about $80,000,000 is spent in a single year upon tips in the United States. That is a lot of money, but when one stops to think how much he himself pays in the course of a year in that way and realizes that there are millions of others who do the same, the estimate looks under rather than over the mark. The waiters' side of the question is interesting. The most enterprising stand for a continuance of the tipping system, asserting that a system of higher wages would not enable them to please their patrons. They explain that it is not the guest only who has to pay tips. It is the matter of tips from the kitchen range and the wine cellar to the table in order to serve a meal properly. To begin with, the waiter explains that he cannot hold his job unless he gives a "rake-off" to the head waiter, out of his day's profits. He may not be discharged for negligence in this respect, but in all large eating places there is a system of fines for breakage and other delinquencies on the part of the waiter. For instance, a lost check in some places means a fine of $5. Breakage and mistakes in ordering from the kitchen are a fruitful source of excuses for fines. These fines are imposed by the head waiter, who is really the autocrat of the table. He enforces discipline, and enforces it rigorously, unless he has a share of the waiters' profits on a day's business. Then there are the special laundry bills which the waiter has to pay in many first-class places. Still, they do not want to be prohibited from taking tips, even if their wages are raised, and, as a matter of fact, they say the prohibition of tips would be a dead letter.

Supervisor James Booth, who has been reading the Congressional Record faithfully for some time past, says the deliberations of the Board of Supervisors cannot possibly exceed in dullness the excerpt from the Record of July 23d last containing this bit of colloquy between Representatives Bartlett, Griggs and Mann:

Mr. Bartlett of Georgia—I would state to the gentleman from Illinois that Ben Hill county is a county which has only recently been established in the district, and now the trouble is to know in what district it is.

Mr. Griggs—That is true. My colleague has stated the situation exactly right.

Mr. Mann—I understand, then, that this new county is a county constituted out of several old counties?

Mr. Griggs—Yes, sir.

Mr. Mann—And those old counties were in a different district?

Mr. Griggs—My information is that it is in the same district.

Mr. Mann—One in the district and another not in the district?

Mr. Griggs—It is in the same district, but unattached as yet to any district.

Mr. Mann—But the whole State is divided into districts?

Mr. Griggs—This is a new county. To all of which one might say, "Oh, what's the use?"

The junk business in San Francisco, which flourished so remarkably after the fire, has finally got back to the old and modest role it played before the great catastrophe. In the summer of 1906 over 300 junk dealer licenses were in existence; now they number less than thirty. Men who were never in the business before seized the opportunity to buy and sell by the wholesale old iron, steel, copper and whatnot. Hundreds of carloads were sold to iron works on both sides of the bay and hundreds more shipped to the Colorado Fuel and Iron Company in Colorado, and even as far east as Chicago. Men new to the business, like Charles P. Harper, Henry Grattan, A. M. Wallace and twenty others reaped a profit of from $75,000 to $150,000 within three years' time. It was the opportunity of a lifetime to easily make money and there were plenty of men who seized it. This business is said to have yielded over three millions in profit as a direct result of the big conflagration.

In the center of the court of the new Palace Hotel there is to be a large palm tree selected from the best there is to be found in Alameda county. Its roots are to be imbedded in its native soil and plumbers will arrange a system of pipes so that the roots will be nourished and the tree's vitality sustained by a regulated system of warm and hot air. In the slang language of the day "hot air" has any meaning but that of real substance or merit.

Colonel John C. Kirkpatrick is to have the genuine article for his magnificent palm. Owing to a difference in the climate between the two sides of the bay and the fact that the tree will be indoors and cut off from a warm flood of sunshine it is necessary for the life of the palm to have its roots warmed daily by a regulated system of heated air. This will readily be done by pipes under the floor of the court and leading from the base of the tree to the furnaces in the hotel basement. Experts have informed the management that a palm under these conditions will live indefinitely and present a beautifully green appearance in the court all the year round.

The property-owners in outlying and unimproved sections of the city are having a controversy with the Board of Public Works over the laying of street curbs in those districts. The Works Board insists that the property-owners be made to pay for granite curbs, which cost $1.40 a lineal foot, while the citizens claim that concrete curbs, reinforced with steel, are not only better, but cost but 35 cents a lineal foot. Street improvements have not only been delayed by this controversy, but much bitterness has been engendered. The property-owners charge that the course of the Board of Public Works is inspired by the fact that McGilvray, one of its members, is also of the McGilvray Stone Company, which is interested in the granite trust of this State and controls most of the open stone quarries in California.

There is a general impression that there are thousands of unemployed of many conditions in this city. While this may be true, a recent attempt to secure the services of 150 men would indicate that the unemployed are not particularly active in their efforts to obtain work.

The services of 150 men were wanted to secure election returns. The time of employment would be from two to four hours and the pay was to be $2 to each man, with car fares and other incidental charges to be provided by the employers. Advertisements on these lines were placed in the newspapers. As a result less than fifty men responded and the advertising had to be repeated before the desired number of men was secured.

THE KNAVE

A SERMON IN A STORY

THE HUMAN LADDER

Written Especially for The Oakland Tribune by Benjamin Fay Mills
Minister of the Oakland Fellowship

SOME years ago there was a great fire in the Sailors' Snug Harbor at Liverpool. The building was three stories in height and was filled with a large number of the sons of the sea who were enjoying their well-earned leisure. The fire occurred in the middle of the night, and with great difficulty the old salts found their way down the stairs to a place of safety.

It was thought that all of them had been safely rescued, when high up in the third story there were discovered three old men, calling for help and making frantic gestures appealing for relief to the bystanders. The stairs were gone, the longest ladders would not reach them, and it was before the day of binding the ladders together, as we do now, so that it seemed as though the horrified onlookers would be forced helplessly to witness the harrowing spectacle of the burning to death of the old men.

Just as the last hope was almost exhausted and the floor was about to fall, a sturdy bricklayer pushed through the throng and spoke in loud tones to those around him and then began to mount the long ladder which had been firmly placed against the side of the building. Up and up he went until he arrived at the top, and then reaching down he took hold of another ladder which was held up to him, and with great difficulty he raised it until the lower end was on his shoulder and the top of the ladder was resting against the building a little distance beneath the window where the imprisoned sailors were. Then this hero, standing there with every nerve and muscle thrilling with an indescribable anguish, called out with a voice that must have thrashed with the very tenderness of the Christ, "Men, come down over me." Then the old sailors, one after another, made their way out of the window, down the upper ladder, across the body of the bricklayer and down the lower ladder until they arrived safely at the ground. The last one had barely left the window when the floor of the room where he had been gave way, and when they had all reached the ground in safety, the upper ladder fell with a crash amid the ruins, and it was with difficulty that the hero made his way to the ground, where he sank exhausted before the men whose lives he had saved and surrounded by the enthusiastic throng.

the men whose lives he had saved and surrounded by the enthusiastic throng.

In our modern world we are strenuously endeavoring to apply all sorts of contrivances for the elevation of our fellowmen. Machinery for education, for physical, mental and moral development, and every variety of reform for the rescue of the unfortunate is found on every hand, and yet in spite of all of this, we find corruption in our politics; our economic system enslaving men instead of setting them free; our social customs many a time binding on us a burden too heavy to bear, and our education becoming an iron mechanism for crushing out the spontaneity of youth rather than developing the soul of the child.

WANTED—The length of a human life, of your life and mine!

WANTED—A deep personal interest, the tenderest sympathy, strong, practical endeavor that shall lead every man, even at the greatest individual sacrifice, to call out to his fellow:

"Come down over me!"

RING THE CURFEW ON COLONEL LION

Texan Has Not Much of an Opinion of Beverly Where Taft Resides

TO ORGANIZE BALLOON CORPS

BOSTON, Aug. 14.—The President continued today the task of signing the commissions of additional census supervisors. At last night's conference only about sixty of the 530 commissions were signed. The remaining 474 will be signed by the Commissioner of Commerce and Labor, must sign the commissions also. Both Secretary Nagel and Postmaster General Hitchcock left the summer capital this afternoon, Nagel continuing his vacation at Marion, Mass., and Hitchcock returning to Washington.

Colonel Cecil Lion, Republican national committeeman from Texas, who has been in Beverly trying to arrange some additional stops on the President's itinerary through Texas, returned to Houston last night with anything but a high opinion of Beverly.

Rang Curfew

In the first place he did not attempt to dine until 7 o'clock and then found that both of the hotel dining rooms had closed. With Director of the Census Durand, Colonel Lion had to sit on a high stool at a lunch counter and eat Boston beans and pie. The Texan thought this bad enough, but, though the curfew bell began to toll at 9 o'clock he nearly collapsed.

More Trains; Yes

"Well, you must admit, Colonel, that Beverly is better than Oyster Bay," interposed one of his friends.

"Yes, better in one way," replied the colonel: "there are more trains to leave it, and me for the next one."

Colonel Lion found that the day on which he hoped to have the President make an additional stop was Sunday. The matter has not been definitely decided as yet, however, and there may be some changes made.

CHRISTIAN SCIENTISTS AND WHAT THE BELIEVE

Editor of THE OAKLAND TRIBUNE, C. A. Canfield's article recently published in your columns contains a paragraph that so misstates the teaching of Christian Science that it calls for a word in reply.

After giving his view of what this science is, this gentleman says: "How strange so many lovely people believe this view," and we would quite agree with him were it not for the fact that no Christian Scientist has ever held such views and that they are nowhere to be found in the literature or teachings of this denomination.

The name Christian Science has been chosen to designate that science which was taught and promulgated by Jesus Christ nineteen hundred years ago and which has been again discovered, expounded and proved by Mrs. Eddy.

Jesus' life of suffering and triumph has marked out the path for all mankind. Christian Scientists recognize the Christ as "the way, the truth, and the life," and accept the scriptural saying "no man cometh unto the Father, but by me" (John 14:6). They worship the one ever-living God, who is spirit and who is good only. This infinitely good God never created a devil; and evil and suffering were proved to be not coming from God, when Jesus brought the recognition of God's omnipotence over against them.

The Christian Scientist does not claim to perform miracles, but he holds it to be divinely natural that all of God's creation should reflect the harmony and perfection of His Maker.

Mrs. D. F. Ragan, grand president of the Catholic Ladies' Aid Society, was the guest of honor at a reception given Thursday afternoon in Sacred Heart parish hall, Forteth and Grove streets, by Branch 28. Mrs. Ragan delivered an interesting address in which she recommended the good work of the society to be continued.

Rev. Father Sarda also made a few remarks complimentary to the work done by the branch. Mrs. A. T. McLoough, past grand president of the Catholic Ladies' Aid, extended greetings to the members.

HYBRID BERRY IS FREAK OF NATURE

"Strawberry - Raspberry" --- Combination of Species Produced by Eastern Farmer

GALENA, Ill., Aug. 14.—Horticulturists of this vicinity are excited over a new berry which may revolutionize the berry growing industry of the State. The new product, called a "Raspberry-strawberry," has been grown at Quincy, it is said, and is a cross between the two native berries. It is said to have originated by accident, by a farmer pollinating from one berry's blossom to the other.

A Quincy farmer who has grown the berries for three years says the bush is three feet high. It has a more delicate flavor than either the strawberry or raspberry and there is a lingering after flavor. No cultivation is needed. In the fall or early spring stalks are nerved close to the ground and new shoots bear the fruit.

When Is Bribery Not Bribery?

Charles M. Fickert, candidate of the Business Men's League for District Attorney of San Francisco, clearly states a line of commendable policy, but he refrains from expressing himself in one particular that is of vital moment just now. Mr. Fickert says:

"In the discharge of my official duties I shall endeavor to be guided by a just and unrestrained consideration of the law and by a cautious appreciation of those functions which the law of our State has conferred upon the office of District Attorney."

"During my term as Assistant United States Attorney I had the handling of both the Federal Grand and Trial Juries in the United States District Court, and the experience gained there will be of material assistance to me if I am elected District Attorney for the city and county of San Francisco.

"If elected I shall enforce the laws, irrespective of the social standing of the offenders who may be brought before me. I shall consider no man above the law and no man beneath the law. Prosecution will be for acts constituting crimes, and in such prosecutions only the people of the State will be considered.

"The hatred or malice of any person or persons, no matter how rich or otherwise powerful they may be, against any defendant, will neither increase nor lessen the offenses, nor intensify nor diminish the vigor of the prosecution."

These are brave words. As far as they go they are entirely worthy of approval, but they leave unsaid something that ought to be stated. Will Mr. Fickert, if elected, appoint as his assistant a man notoriously in the pay of a private person? Does he believe a man in receipt of private compensation for services rendered as a public officer a fit person to hold office or be entrusted with the prosecution of alleged offenders whom he is privately paid to prosecute? The law says a public officer who takes money for the performance of an official act is guilty of bribe-taking. Are there any exceptions to the rule?

Mr. Fickert might pertinently answer this question: If it is permissible for an Assistant District Attorney to receive private pay as compensation for his official services, why is it not equally permissible for a District Attorney to receive private pay? Applying it to the issue concretely presented in San Francisco, if it is lawful and proper for Francis J. Heney, acting as Assistant District Attorney, to take pay from Rudolph Spreckels for services ostensibly rendered the State as a public prosecutor, why is it not equally lawful and proper to continue in Spreckels' pay if he were elected District Attorney? Heney is a candidate for District Attorney, the position to which Mr. Fickert aspires. His financial relations with Rudolph Spreckels while serving as District Attorney present the chief issue in the campaign as regards this office. Why is Mr. Fickert silent regarding it? It is an issue that not only involves a grave question of public policy, but challenges the integrity of the law.

The public would like to know if Mr. Fickert thinks there are occasions when bribery is not bribery, when the law does not mean what it says. If he thinks there are no such occasions will he prosecute men who have openly and defiantly violated the statute defining what constitutes bribery of public officials?

Sir Francis Bacon set up the defense that an official who does right is not guilty of bribery if he takes private money as a reward for the performance of public service, but his defense did not avail. He was deposed from his high office of Lord Chief Justice, degraded and punished. He declared that he was not influenced in his decisions by the money he took, but he took money on both sides, and it was observed that he gave the law to the man who gave him the biggest present.

The same defense is made for Heney that was derided and repudiated in the case of Lord Verulam. Heney says he takes money from Spreckels not as fees, but as payment of "office expenses." What's the difference in the final analysis? Spreckels' checks were made personally payable to Heney, and were deposited to his personal credit. They aggregate more than $600 a month, and the money they represent was used for the personal benefit of Heney.

Will Mr. Fickert tell the people of San Francisco what he thinks of the transaction? Does he make a distinction between money paid ostensibly for "office expenses" and a bribe? Does the statute make any such distinction? Is it not a distinction without a difference, a term invented for the occasion as an excuse for the commission of a crime? Mr. Fickert says he "will be guided by a just and unrestrained consideration of the law." What is his conception of a just and unrestrained application of the law to the financial transactions between Heney and Spreckels?

Speak out, Mr. Fickert, the issue is before you. It is the crux of the municipal campaign. If you approve of the financial transactions between Heney and Spreckels you should not be a candidate in opposition to Heney. Why not say at once that it is all right for Spreckels to pay money to judges on the bench ostensibly for theater tickets, automobile hire or laundry bills? What San Francisco wants is a District Attorney who will enforce the law honestly and fearlessly and without favor, who will dare to do right, and who will not palter with his conscience nor juggle with the law; who will call a spade a spade and prosecute to the fullest extent all who are reasonably suspected of committing crime, using the machinery of the law fairly and lawfully and showing no favors to rich or poor not warranted by the facts and attending circumstances of each case. But, Mr. Fickert, tell us when is a bribe not a bribe—and that there are no exceptions why should not all bribers and bribe-takers be prosecuted and punished?

Britain's Defense Plans.

Lord Roberts has won out in his campaign for the organization of a great army for the defense of the British empire, but not exactly on the lines which he advocated as necessary. The famous warrior believed the time had come when Great Britain would have to abandon the policy of voluntary enlistment in the military service of the country and resort to conscription, as other nations in the Old World do. Conscription was resorted to in the United Kingdom during the Napoleonic wars in the beginning of the Nineteenth Century; but when "The Little Corporal," who had kept Europe in a state of war for two decades, was safely transferred to the mid-Atlantic island of St. Helena, the policy of voluntary enlistment for army service was restored and later "the press gang" to recruit the British navy was suppressed.

At the imperial conference held in London in the latter part of July, at which all of the self-governing colonies were represented, a program of naval and military defense of the empire was formulated. These self-governing colonies have voluntarily undertaken to carry their share of the burden which the new program imposes upon them, namely, to assume the responsibility and the expense of building and maintaining powerful auxiliary fleets, primarily for the protection of their own seaboards, but which, in time of war, shall be incorporated in the imperial navy and placed at the disposal and under the control of the British Admiralty and be subject to the orders of the admiral commanding the imperial fleet. This policy has simplified the problem of maintaining a sea-fighting force equal to the strength of any two naval powers combined.

The military program agreed upon at the imperial conference seems to have settled the army problem by the adoption of a plan quite as simple and which promises to be equally effective. It provides for the organization and training of military forces in all of the self-governing colonies on one general plan, through the establishment in Britain's over-sea dominions of military training colleges along the lines of the model furnished by the staff college located at Camberley, a continuous interchange of officers from all parts of the empire and a uniform system of training of troops in the United Kingdom, Canada, Australia, New Zealand and South Africa, which insure perfect harmony between the several parts when mobilization as a whole under one commander-in-chief becomes necessary. The plan as unfolded by British War Secretary Haldane in a recent public speech guarantees the possibility of furnishing a military machine of perfect working order equivalent to the total strength of the German army with its twenty-three army corps.

"If elected I shall enforce the laws, irrespective of the social standing of the offenders who may be brought before me. I shall consider no man above the law and no man beneath the law. Prosecution will be for acts constituting crimes, and in such prosecutions only the people of the State will be considered.

"The hatred or malice of any person or persons, no matter how rich or otherwise powerful they may be, against any defendant, will neither increase nor lessen the offenses, nor intensify nor diminish the vigor of the prosecution."

These are brave words. As far as they go they are entirely worthy of approval, but they leave unsaid something that ought to be stated. Will Mr. Fickert, if elected, appoint as his assistant a man notoriously in the pay of a private person? Does he believe a man in receipt of private compensation for services rendered as a public officer a fit person to hold office or be entrusted with the prosecution of alleged offenders whom he is privately paid to prosecute? FLYING IS A VERY COSTLY SPORT

There is nothing cheap about aeronautics whether followed as a business or for amusement. It is not known what has been spent by the Wrights, the foremost American inventors, but it is estimated that it is not far from $100,000. And it may be said that no other inventor has had such returns for his investment as have these Wright brothers. They are practically the only Americans who have been to any extent reimbursed.

From the Weier syndicate who received $100,000, and $5000 has been paid to them by the French government as an option on their machine. And they still have a chance to get contracts with the English and German governments. Last year Wilbur Wright picked up the $1000 cash prize that accompanied the Michelin trophy in making a flight of two hours eighteen minutes and thirty-three seconds. They receive from the Government $25,000 for the flying machine delivered at Washington.

The only other inventor in this country to fly in a heavier than air machine is Glenn H. Curtiss, who recently came into prominence by his remarkable flights at Mineola, made in his machine, the Golden Flyer, built for the Aeronautic Society. Mr. Curtiss is one of five men who composed the Aerial Experiment Association, at the head of which was Dr. Alexander Graham Bell. The late Lieutenant Selfridge and two young Canadians, F. W. Baldwin and J. A. D. McCurdy, were the other members. Dr. Bell had been experimenting with tetrahedral kites, and it was at the suggestion of Mrs. Bell that an association was formed. Four machines—the Red Wing, White Wing, June Bug and Silver Dart—were the outcome of the consolidation of talent. In the June Bug Glenn H. Curtiss won the Scientific American trophy, and with the Silver Dart McCurdy made some long flights in Canada. After one year the association disbanded and it was estimated that $80,000 in cash had been spent.

A. M. Herring, another inventor whose interests have been united with those of Mr. Curtiss, has spent years and a good sized fortune in his efforts to perfect the aeronautica. Mr. Herring built a machine for the Government for which he was to receive $20,000 if it succeeded. Mr. Curtiss has the distinction of being the first inventor to sell and deliver an aeronautica in this country—the one purchased by the Aeronautic Society. The ideas of the two inventors are amalgamated in this machine, although it was ordered from Mr. Curtiss before the company was formed. He also won the first cash prize of $250 offered by Cortland Field Bishop.

Santos-Dumont, who has spent his personal income on experiments, captured the $10,000 prize for circling Eiffel Tower. He has used both biplane and monoplane.

In his experiments Langley spent $50,000 appropriated by the Government besides much of his own money. Sir Hiram Maxim is said to have expended something like $100,000 of his money earned on other inventions. Lilienthal, Chanute, Ludlow and Pilcher have put large sums in gliders. Both Lilienthal and Pilcher lost their lives in making tests of their inventions, and Ludlow severely and permanently injured his back in a fall with a glider.

Out of the vast experiments only a small number have accomplished flight in power or on machines. Latham and Bleriot have made splendid records with monoplanes and the Wrights, Delage, Santos-Dumont, Cody, Curtiss and Emanuelli-Peltier have successfully demonstrated the biplane. Not less than $50,000 has been spent at Morris Park, where a number of inventors have their workshops. As yet not one of these machine has flown.

Count Zeppelin is an illustration of what has been expended to perfect the airship. It is well known that he used $100,000 of his own money and $150,000 of that subscribed by the German public. Then there are the two Clementiays, the Paris, La Patrie, the Ville de Nancy, La Republique, the Paris and others that represent vast sums.

The wants of man are few, but the wants of the average woman would fill several want columns of a newspaper.

When you see a man making all sorts of faces at himself in a mirror it's a safe bet that he's either crazy or shaving.

London Gives Away Big Sums to Beggars

That the skilled beggar can make a larger sum a week than the average industrious working man was one of the opinions advanced by the chairman (Robert Pierpoint) at the annual meeting of the London Mendicity Society.

It was probable, he said, that in the streets of London alone something like $100,000 a year was given away in casual charity by persons who knew nothing about the conditions and circumstances of those to whom they gave.

The total number of begging letters received by the society during 1908 was 1858, which, with those already in its possession, made a total of no fewer than 23,593. He pointed out that about 28 per cent of begging letter-writers were utter impostors, and only about 12 per cent were deserving of help.

Mr. Pierpoint reminded those present that the society was originally formed by the first Duke of Wellington, owing to the number of beggars who, professing to have served under him at Waterloo and in the Peninsular wars, continually accosted him in the streets for alms.—Reynolds' Newspaper.

So far as Oakland was directly concerned, it was, moreover, an appreciable gathering. It appreciated what the Oakland realty committees had done for their entertainment; it appreciated what they had to show; it appreciated at its full value the progress Oakland has made and is making from a practical standpoint and now that it is all over its membership has scattered all over the State, carrying with it pleasant memories and the most perfect goodwill toward Oakland. And for these happy results Oakland is indebted to its own real estate men, for they took upon themselves all responsibilities—financial and otherwise—that were necessary to make it the perfect success which it was.

The State Realty Federation was responsive to all of this. It paid the high compliment to Oakland of electing Oakland's popular and progressive Mayor, Frank K. Mott, whose efforts and influence had so largely exerted to make the convention an ideal success, to the presidency without opposition and by a unanimous vote, and that solely on the merit of his standing in the community as the head of one of the most prominent real estate firms in Oakland. To the latter it is a particularly agreeable closing of the most interesting and successful event in its convention history.

SPRINGFIELD (Of Second Generation) POETRY

The tariff being off the ways we can return to our first love, Poetry, and especially the Agawam school. A Court of Poetry was held in Springfield the other day. The subject was Springfield itself. The first prize was a crown of bronze bay leaves with a medallion of the most famous of Springfield singers, General Sambo Bowles. As usual, the official judges loved mediocrity. We cannot praise the work of their choice, Mr. Henry Denver. For instance:

"The city calls to youth and age,
From strife and warfare cease,
And urge the martial legions till
The waiting fields of peace."

Anybody would suppose that the comfortable Springfield burglers were musing one another after the manner of the Perugians or Sienese. Mr. James Brewer Corcoran's "Springfield to Her Soar" got honorable mention from the judges. More than it will get up from us. A maker who hitches up "laws" with "wars" can never plough the waiting fields of verse for us.

The best, the strongest pinioned, the most silver footed song of all did, mysteriously enough, find some favor with those stolid imps. "The City's Call to Its Youth" comes from the Hon. Sambo Bowles Jr. Fortes creaturis fortibus; poets from poets spring, as the cases of the Lyttons and the Coleridges may remind us. Hear this clear, fresh young voice:

"By dark and filthy alley,
By crime instilling slum,
By wrong in highest places—
Where wrong may sometimes come—
By all that's mean and ugly,
By dirt, disease and vice,
The city claims its service,
A service worth the price."

"And by associations,
By all that's meant by 'home,'
And by the splendid vision
Of the city yet to come,
And by the nameless something—
The civic spirit's thrill—
The city calls its children—
And they will heed the call."

A service worth the price! There are in fact few more profitable professions that that of the sociologist, the gentleman who abolishes his own poverty by mooning about that of other folks. But can there be slums in Springfield? Since the liveliest of "war correspondents" assured the world that there were no slums in Paris we have felt that even Springfield, with all her temptations to root beer and huckleberry pie, ought to be reasonably free from crime, disease and vice. Be that as it may, it is our happiness to give laurels with full hands to the second generation of Agawam gleemen. May it equal—it never can surpass—the tender perversity, the love of Nature, the sweet malleable spirituality of the first!—New York Sun.

Alameda county has thus taken the initiative toward putting Alameda county in line with San Joaquin, Los Angeles, Santa Barbara, Orange, Riverside and San Diego counties, which have been incurring bonded indebtedness in order to develop a perfect system of good county roads within their respective boundaries. Los Angeles county has bonded itself for $3,000,000 for the purpose, San Diego has incurred a bonded indebtedness of $1,750,000; San Joaquin recently voted for an issuance of $1,125,000 for the construction of a system of good roads, and the other counties named have incurred a bonded debt for lesser amounts for the same purpose.

Alameda county has already a superb network of good roads, the value of which has of late been unfolded and set at rest all can against the cost involved in their construction, and the example set by the enlightened policy adopted by the Supervisors in their development is what has stirred other counties into activity on the subject of the construction of good county roads for themselves. It is no exaggeration to say that no county in the State has a system of good roads of corresponding mileage to that which Alameda county possesses. That these good roads are appreciated at their full value is proved by the enormous attraction they exert to draw pleasure-seekers from other counties to enjoy them.

But the San Leandro Board of Trade is possessed with the idea that Alameda county cannot have too many good roads; that there is room for vast improvement, and that the system can be greatly extended to the county's financial gain.

Moreover, the ambition of the San Leandro Board of Trade and its enterprising citizens do not stop at the proposition of advocating an extension of the county's good roads system, but they propose to improve their own streets so as to be equal to the best in the State. The Board of Town Trustees is considering a plan of street improvement which will put it on a level with the most advanced city on the Pacific Coast in that respect, by employing the powers which a State law of 1883 confers upon it to issue ten-year bonds to cover the cost. This statute had been overlooked until City Attorney Locke discovered it and its applicability to San Leandro's needs.

Under the provisions of this statute the San Leandro Trustees see their way clear to do in two years in the way of street improvement what it would take at least ten years to perform under other processes, and they have decided to inaugurate a system of local street improvement which will put San Leandro on a par

AGED CONTRACTOR CLAIMS ESTATE

Well-known San Franciscan Files Novel Suit to Break a Will

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 14.—Henry Baker-Patson, an aged contractor and old resident of this city, filed an interesting will contest today in which he admits that he is the natural son of William Parsons, brother of the late James Parsons, a wealthy woman who died in this city March 29, 1906, aged 90 years, leaving an estate valued at more than $30,000 to numerous friends, churches and charitable societies.

Parsons was cut off in the will with $50, the aged woman declaring that "said Henry Baker, alias Parsons, is in no way related to me. I have never recognized him," she asserted in her will "and I particularly and positively wish that Henry Baker, alias Parsons and every member of his family, all and severally, be excluded from controlling, managing and interfering with my property."

Was Recognized, Nevertheless

Despite this clause in the will, Parsons declared that the woman recognized him as the natural son of her brother, and when the brother died she entered into an agreement with Parsons to adopt him as her own son and in return she would bequeath him the "affection and society of herself as a good mother should."

In consideration of this agreement the woman declared that Parsons should receive her estate, but this agreement, Parsons alleges, was entirely forgotten by the woman when she made her will. He charges that interested persons prevailed upon the woman to leave Parsons out of the will entirely and acting upon this alleged wrongful influence she overruled Parsons.

The charge is also made by Parsons that George Asling, who claims to be a first cousin of the dead woman, is no relation, adding that when Mrs. Parsons died she left no living relatives.

Knocked by Neighbors

Parsons, who is a conspicuous figure on San Francisco streets, was born in England in 1849 and at the age of 21 left England for America. About a year before Mrs. Parsons died the woman's neighbors, it is alleged, told her that Parsons was dissipating her property and because of this alleged false statement the woman turned against Parsons.

ASKS CITY TO CONTROL MT. OLYMPUS STATUE

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 14.—Dr. Edmund Morris, attorney of the estate of the late George Asling, Saturday, asked the Park Commissioners to take control of the plot of land 100 feet square, situated on "Mount Olympus," on which his family erected the statue of "The Goddess of Love," during the time the land was deeded to the city by the former owner in 1887, but has never been definitely taken charge of by any department of the municipal government. The Park Commissioners since receiving Mr. Morris' request have written City Clerk Sean of the Board of Supervisors, asking that their rights in the premises, and the question will be submitted to the City Attorney.

SAN FRANCISCO PAYS SCHOOL TAX TO STATE

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 14.—Treasurer McDonald has paid into the State treasury a balance of $100,126.36 due from the city to the State in settlement of the school money account for the fiscal year, which ended on June 31. The Treasurer personally accompanied the money to Sacramento.

THE NEW APARTMENT HOUSE

In the past two years the cry of the public of Oakland for better home facilities, with less of detail, has found its response in the erection of many apartment houses. These have been developed to a high degree, the structures generally built to attain to well high perfection, affording every home comfort, in the case of the largest at least, with hotel convenience amid perfect surroundings.

Here are now good accommodations for people of ample purse—that are numberless so-called homes for the less discriminating, but a great body of citizens can easily afford to live in them, coupled with their appreciation of home conveniences have a determination to lay aside from their income something for the inevitable rainy day, have not hitherto been fully considered by these matrons. To these the opening of the "Vue de la Mer" at the corner of Third Avenue and Sixteenth street has come as a direct boon, rich, airy and the completely furnished private rooms with every convenience, on high ground overlooking Lake Merritt, and with wholly desirable surroundings, at the price of inferior down town rentals, the three, three and four-room apartments, have splendid light and cold water, steam heat, direct line telephones, private baths, etc., at prices varying from $25 to $35, and although no room of the matrons have not yet arrived, they are being rented every day. The Diamond cars passing the door, it is well worth while to investigate.

LOOK FOR THEM TODAY.

Little things that are hidden from view, but easy to find. Not animal, vegetable or mineral, but makes you money. Little want ads that have been secured from first-class firms and contain a misspelled word.

For a number of weeks, to the one sending in the first correct answer in his detection of the word misspelled, also best and briefest reason why the advertiser in question should be patronized, a prize of $5 in cash will be paid.

For the second, third, fourth, fifth and sixth answers, in the order received, prizes to the value of $1 apiece in merchandise will be awarded to each one of the successful contestants. These merchandise prizes are now on display in the window of Hill & Seltzer's store, northeast corner Ninth and Washington streets.

YOUNG BARON LEFT NO WIDOW

Now Proved That Suicide Rothschild was Not Married to Olga Menn

VIEENNA, Aug. 14.—It is now proved that Miss Olga Menn of Chicago was not married to the late Baron Rothschild, who committed suicide some time ago. It is understood that an agreement with the Baron's father is expected to be reached within a few days.

Julius Kessler and Attorney Rosenberg, representing the Menn family, have demanded a confession from the Baron that all allegations about Olga and her relatives, which the Rothschild family is said to have made, were false. It is also said that the lawyers have demanded an indemnity for the expenses and trouble the Menn family experienced.

It is explained that Oscar was left penniless in Chicago by his father, who did not want him to return to Vienna, and that the Menn family paid his passage to New York, a steamer to the steamer to Hamburg, and his fare to Vienna by train from that city. The amount thus disbursed for Oscar Rothschild is mentioned as $20,000.

Rothschild is worth $250,000,000, but has a reputation for extreme stinginess.

It is believed there will be much difficulty in inducing him to pay his son's bills.

CITY'S CHECKING FUND TOTALS OVER MILLION

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 14.—Additional deposits of city money were made the last week with banks in and around the city, making the total to date $1,000,000, drawing interest at 3 per cent, subject to withdrawal without notice at any time that the city may need it. The latest deposit of $100,000 was made in the Bank of Italy, this city, $75,000 with the Bank of Polk, Woodland; $12,500 with the Central Savings Bank, $14,500 with the City Bank, $10,000 with the Sterling City Bank, and $10,000 with the A. Merson Banking Company, Pleasanton. The last named concern furnished Santa Rosa bridge, street and water bonds to the amount of $100,000. All the other depositories supplied San Francisco bonds.

ANDREW MACK WILL STAR IN NEW COMEDY

NEW YORK, Aug. 14.—Lew Fields has signed a contract with Andrew Mack by which the latter will be starred under his management in a new musical comedy now being written by two American composers. The production will probably be made early in the fall in a Broadway theater.

BIG CARNIVAL TO BE GALA AFFAIR

San Jose Makes Elaborate Plans for Admission Day Celebration

There will be something going on all the time. The citizens of San Jose are boosting the celebration and backing the Native Sons Celebration Committee in every way.

There will be four days of carnival and pleasure. The city will be illuminated by night with beautiful decorations. Admission Day parade on the morning of September 9 will be a glittering pageant of beauty. Brilliant uniforms, handsome banners, magnificent floats, bands, drum corps and thousands of Native Sons and Daughters will march through the streets of San Jose.

There will be grand balls on Thursday and Friday evenings. The horse show will be given on the morning of the 10th, promises to be a big event. Horsemen throughout the State are entering their fancy stock. The polo races are a big card.

There will also be a baby show.

CRETANS CANNOT FLY GREEK FLAG

Protecting Powers Promise Turkey to Remove Objectionable Emblem Permanently

LONDON, Aug. 14.—A jointnote, signed by the four protecting powers of Crete—Great Britain, Russia, Italy and France—has been presented to the Turkish government. It promises that the powers will see that the objectionable flag hoisted by the Cretans is removed permanently.

The joint note is the result of a notification from the Cretan Government that it was unable to comply with the hauling down of the Greek flag. The protecting powers have decided each to send a second warship to Crete and proceed by force to remove the Greek ensign.

MOTOR CYCLIST IS INJURED IN RACE

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Aug. 14.—During the ten-mile protest race in the motorcycle race to night Jake De Rosier of Springfield, Mass., going full speed, was passed rapidly when the front tire of the machine went bare and throwing him to the ground.

COURAGEOUS GIRL FRIGHTENS THIEF

Advances Upon Intruder with Loot but He Makes Escape

SAN FRANCISCO Aug 14—Caught in the act of ransacking the residence of Oliver D. Hubbard, 180 Valencia street, Miss Edna Hubbard, an spirited girl who had slipped into the place by the front door, was frightened away before he could gather his booty. The robbery was at moon.

The front door had been maliciously left open by one of the young residents and the robber, after missing his way into the house, had gone up a quantity of stairs, and then had crept into a bundle when Miss Hubbard was asleep.

The girl saw him and lay in wait, and, dashing up the stairs, she had pushed through the still open doorway and run rapidly to the door of safety. She told Miss Hubbard, who was still awake, exactly what had happened, was just in time to witness the girl's dash, and the superior of the young girl said, "I think she is a real heroine."

Breaks in Door

A girl, 14, who is believed to be the same culprit who was seen last night in Edna Hubbard's room, was found this morning in the house of John F. H. O'Connor, 1810 Valencia street, at 8:30 last night. She had just broken the front door. But the girl, who was alone in the room, was so frightened that she did not speak.

In the course of the night, as she had been sleeping on the street, pursued by a person who how ever could not overtaking her.

SEEKS DAMAGES FOR DEATH OF HER HUSBAND

SAN FRANCISCO Aug 14—O. P. Tracy, a dental surgeon, was called into court this morning to give his opinion in suit by Mrs. Anna Weber, widow of the editor of Our Home, W. B. Weber, Superior court to try Mrs. Weber, the widow of H. W. Tracy, who on August 12, 1907, was shot in the Dush's buildings and was instantly killed. Her two young children, Harry Alice and Gertrude, and the wife claim that the conduct was responsible for the accident.

Talks on Teeth

BY THE REX DENTAL CO (Incorporated)

Wanted—First-Class Dentistry

The most important thing in the world is good dentistry. An ignorant dentist can do more harm in one hour than all the good dentists in the land can in years. The trouble is that when the harm is done, or when the teeth are gone, there is no cure for it. There is no such thing as repairing the damage or reducing the cost of a tooth.

Dentistry must be done well in the beginning.

The great specialty of this company is known to all. Mr. W. M. Holley has been in the dental business for 25 years.

In those 25 years we have got the greatest cases. We are the court of last resort.

In the opinion of 18, we are the best to enter. We are not afraid to tell the truth when the truth is to tell the truth in either to work or not.

Suppose we were to build such a shop. What we put this work in the mouth is to stay. The dental teeth are sold as a rock otherwise they would not work.

It is not a dental office that calls for first-class dentistry.

Play Fair

I have been an employer for many years and found it you are inclined to pay me you will have no difficulty with that. I firmly believe in organized labor and in confidence that most in fact all strikes could be avoided by being a little more lenient and meeting the men half way.

Suppose we were to build such a shop.

What we put this work in the mouth is to stay. The dental teeth are sold as a rock otherwise they would not work.

It is not a dental office that calls for first-class dentistry.

OAKLAND DEALERS TO BECOME ACTIVE

The Coming Season to Be Full of Events and Competition.

I. E. MICUM of Orland, Cal., and members of his family, in his Studebaker E. M. F. '30'.

(By C. E. MOYES.)

Robert Martland, president of the Oakland Automobile Dealers' Association, stated yesterday that that organization will shortly call a run to some nearby place, where a meeting will be held, and a new lease of life entered into by the members.

There are a number of matters of importance to be taken up and Martland stated that interest is reviving among the dealers, especially due to the strenuous season just opening, an endeavor will be made to have meetings monthly. Interest in the big road run to take place during Forlorn, backed by the most prominent of Oakland's business men, has stirred the Oakland dealers and will give them a chance to show what they can do.

1910 Oldsmobile Arrives

The Howard Automobile Company, who are the Pacific coast distributors of the Oldsmobiles, announce the arrival of the 1910 models, which may be seen, either at their salerooms, 523 Golden Gate avenue, San Francisco, or at the Oakland agency, 269 Twelfth street. The 1910 Oldsmobile is up to date mechanically. The car is refined in finish and complete in appointment. Carl Christensen, Oakland agent, said yesterday, in speaking of the new cars, that there had been no radical change from the 1909 model, yet enough had been done to place it among the foremost of cars of American manufacture, and details of improvement made that will appeal to the man who has owned a car before, as well as to the amateur owner. The transmission system of the 1910 models is four speed selective type and the six-cylinder cars are equipped with 42-inch Jiffy-kid wheels, a feature of which the Oldsmobile is pioneer.

Many Buick Tourists

Mr. and Mrs. Horner, accompanied by their family, started on Wednesday on a three months' tour in their Buick "White Streak." They will cover the greater part of the state. Katherine McClurg toured to Pacific Grove recently, where she spent some time visiting the points of interest and taking in the many drives. Upon her return yesterday she stated that she had experienced no trouble whatever with her car.

Trouble Brewing Over Records

Homer George, secretary of the New Orleans Automobile Club, and one of the greatest enthusiasts in the United States, has taken exception to the management of the Indianapolis Motor Speedway Company, issuing a table of American records to be broken at Indianapolis. A large number of the records which now stand were made on the fair grounds track at New Orleans during the Mardi Gras meet, after $3000 had been spent by the New Orleans Auto Club on the track. George contends that it is manifestly unfair to the holders of the present records over mile circular tracks, and to the clubs promoting races over mile circular courses, to have time on a two and a half mile track compared with time made over a one mile circular course.

Of course the time made at Indianapolis will not be classed by the A. A. A. contest board with mile circular track time, but the record sheet issued and sent broadcast by the Indianapolis promoters will have the effect of creating an impression that the Indianapolis record will be so classed.

The Other Side

The explanation as made by the California Motor Racing Association in yesterday's TRIBUNE is one side of the case, while it may be said this is the other side:

"It is a source of gratification to me," said C. S. Howard, of the Howard Automobile Company, "to know that I am supported in my position with reference to the barring of low priced cars in the 300-mile track race to be held at Tangeron on September 5 by practically the entire automobile fraternity, with the exception of those who are directly interested in the success of a few of the higher priced cars. The expressions of sympathy with my attitude which I have received from all quarters are sufficient assurances that the public is convinced of the merit of my claims. It is a repetition of the action recently taken by many of the promoters of race meets throughout the east, notably that at Brighton Beach on July 30, in which a classification of a minimum of $2000 was made. The motive in placing a minimum just over the price of the Buick-40, which they had never been able to defeat on the track, was so apparent to all that a storm of protests went up from the eastern press as the action was characterized as the most open and flagrant offence against the basic principles of sportsmanship ever perpetrated. Although a feeble effort has been attempted in the local case, it is difficult to explain to the satisfaction of the public and to sustain a position in which a car like the Buick-40 that it must be admitted they have failed to defeat, should be eliminated arbitrarily by a minimum classification, and every lover of true sport will disprove of such. It can readily

RETURNS AFTER SUCCESSFUL TRIP

Mrs. M. J. Linz' in TRIBUNE'S Interest, Visits Many Factories

MRS. M. J. LINZ.

Mrs. M. J. Linz, well-known to the readers of The Tribune as a former editor of the automobile section, has returned from an extensive trip throughout the east. Mrs. Linz' health made it impossible for her to continue her work in these columns, and after a year and a half she gave up her position. A short time after, contemplating a trip East, she was asked by the Tribune to represent its interests at the many automobile factories she would be in a position to visit. With her usual success, she has returned with glowing reports, and is looking with interest over the outlook in the automobile world in general for the coming season.

Mrs. Linz's versatility, charming manners, and clever tact, win friends for her wherever she goes, and bring her unbounded success.

be seen that with this war waging, the outcome will be watched with much interest. The dealers, many of them, feel that there is something back of the action by the dealers in the 300-mile race against the public, and in the local case, it is difficult to explain to the satisfaction of the public and to sustain a position in which a car like the Buick-40 that it must be admitted they have failed to defeat, should be eliminated arbitrarily by a minimum classification, and every lover of true sport will disprove of such. ## A Pleasant Tour Suggested

H. H. Erix of Fresno, Cal., who is at present touring the southern part of the State and Mexico in his Studebaker "40" touring car, writes as follows: The trip to the Pines from Fresno is one of the most delightful in the State. A good hotel will be found there and fine trout and black bass fishing, also deer hunting. The run is about fifty miles to the east of the "Raisin City" and may be made in three hours. Another run is that to Shaver Lake, sixty miles east of Fresno, which can be made in four hours over the new Tollhouse grade.

Big Record of Diamond Tires

The need of better roads is the lesson of the Glidden Tour of this year and the tire expenses in the contest are an argument to the automobile owner to pay his share for them cheerfully and save money on the bills. This is the statement made by the Diamond Rubber Company, whose annual analysis of the tire cost of the trip is published today. Various items show the cost of traveling over the rocky trails and gravel-covered roads, which for great distances the tourists encountered. The average tire cost per car, taking into account all machines in the trip, the Diamond Company states, was $21.50. The record of the thirteen cars which used Diamond tires, it is announced, was $26.84. The average of a thousand service reports on the Diamond product in regular work is considerably less than this, because the general average of roads is better than the Glidden route afforded. In addition to the thirteen cars of Diamond tires in use there were twenty-seven other sets of tires, six different makes being represented, and in the reports of the Diamond tire observers tires of every maker used are included. As tires did not figure in the official scores, however, there being no penalty of any kind for tire changes or repairs, the whole Diamond report is placed on a dollars and cents basis. In view of the conflicting claims made every year, also, regarding the service in the tour the Diamond Rubber Company announced the victory of its product under the significant heading, "The Whole Truth Regarding Glidden Tour Tire Results." The statement is worth reading.

Charles S. Howard reports the sale of a 40-horsepower Buick touring car to C. E. Legris of Oakland.

The Western Electric Vehicle Company has just made delivery to Mrs. E. L. Stubbins of a Detroit Victoria. This car was specially equipped for Mrs. Stubbins, according to her specifications, and has just been received from the factory. Mrs. Stubbins is very much pleased with her car and especially with its easy riding qualities on account of an exceptionally long wheel-base.

Today the motorcyclists of San Francisco will join with the local devotees in a pleasure run to Camp Taylor. There is not a semblance of a contest in the affair, unless it be in the matter of sport. Many ladies will accompany their escorts, riding single and tandem.

C. F. Salmonson, in speaking of this year's model of the Reddick-Standard, four horsepower, single cylinder, motor-cycle, stated yesterday that these vehicles have given excellent satisfaction, being both durable and speedy, and a splendid hill climber, even when ridden tandem. The twin-cylinder motorcycles use six and seven horsepower.

WATER SPOUT AND WAVE WREAK HAVOC

NEW YORK, Aug. 14.—Weather experts are trying today to classify the various kinds of violent weather which yesterday troubled all of Long Island.

At the eastern extremity of the island a huge wave in Heconic Bay, described as a tidal wave, engulfed many boats and swept away houses and summer homes, while a heavy rain storm was in progress.

At about the same time, two miles off the south shore, a huge waterspout was seen. This occurred near a fleet of fishing boats, several of which the turbulent waters overturned. It is believed that no one was drowned.

Near the eastern end of the island a terrible wind storm, accompanied by rain, did much damage, sweeping away the city of tents near Arverne and uprooting many houses.

The peculiar weather did thousands of dollars damage.

NEW SKIN REMEDY STOPS ALL ITCHING

Skin Troubles of Adults and Infants Quickly Cured.

When it is applied to the skin, the skin becomes dry, smooth, and comfortable, and brings immediate relief from all skin troubles. It is especially good for the tender skin of infants. It may be used with soothing and beneficial effects. It is applied externally and its remarkable healing powers begin at once.

It cures skin diseases, including eczema, acne, hives, rashes, etc., and immediately to painless. Occasional applications, in small quantities, will quickly banish pimples, blemishes, blackheads, blisters, sores, warts, etc. A special 50-cent package is prepared for those who use post in for these minor skin troubles. This is well as the regular two dollars. It is on sale at the O'Day Drug Co. and the leading drug stores in Oakland.

An experimental supply of post may be obtained free of charge by writing to the Emergency Laboratory, 322 West Twenty-fifth street, New York.

of the motorcyclists on the national endurance run. Advice from all over the United States indicates that this is the greatest gathering of motorcycle enthusiasts ever assembled in a given community, and indications are that all the world's records from one to twenty-five miles, will be smashed on the new national speedway, already spoken of as "American Brooklands." Much credit is due to the Indianapolis Motorcycle Club, the merchants of Indianapolis, and the merchants of the Central West for bringing together this wonderful host of motorcycle enthusiasts.

George A. Pauline said yesterday that the big motorcycle endurance run to be held September 5 and 6, and which will be a continuous twenty-four-hour grand tour over the San Leandro route, was creating considerable interest. It is said that many entrants from other clubs would participate in the contest, which will be as much a test for the riders as for the motorcycles.

(*Not including motor buggy having Diamond Motor Buggy Solid Tires, whose record was perfect, or truck which also used Solid Tires.)

BEAR PARTICULARLY IN MIND

That the above record is figured impartially and based on strictly reliable observations (Detailed figures sent on request.)

Many conflicting claims as to tire performances in the Glidden Tour will be made. Read them all, put confidence where you will, but the above is the record reduced to dollars and cents. Representations on Glidden—every one of them—but not on all four original castings, in every instance.

AND NOTE THIS

No Diamond castings or tubes suffering injury were repaired en route and returned to cars to permit of advertising a finish on original castings or tubes. It is known this was done in various instances.

REMEMBER

No penalties were or could be imposed for tire trouble. Tires could not contribute to or detract from any car's chance of winning the Glidden or any other trophy.

Any contestant was at perfect liberty to change tires at any time without penalty.

A perfect or imperfect score bore no relation to tires, one way or another.

The only measure of comparative tire efficiency available in the whole tour is that of cost for the mileage delivered. But what measure is better suited to determine relative tire values?

AND REMEMBER

That scores of other public events—and thousands upon thousands of individual tests have confirmed the annual Glidden Tour verdict—Diamond Tires are the best and the most economical.

Take the 1000-mile tire test made by the Chicago Motor Club, a conspicuous Diamond victory—take the six months' Upkeep Contest of a well-known automobile manufacturing concern—also won on Diamond Tires—take endurance runs, sealed Bonnet contests—take any test you will. IN POINT OF DURABILITY DIAMOND TIRES HAVE NEVER SUFFERED A DEFEAT.

REMEMBER ALSO

That although the course of this year's tour was nearly 1000 miles greater than in 1908, and the roads worse, Diamond Tires made the same good showing they made last year, and, conditions considered, a still lower mileage cost.

TO INVESTIGATE VETERAN'S BURIAL

Interred in Potter's Field When $115 was Allowed for Funeral

An investigation will be made of the estate of the late A. L. Poundstone, a veteran newspaper man and past commander of Lyon Post, who died March 14 in the County Infirmary, and was buried March 18 in the Potter's Field. A committee composed of past commanders of Lyon Post was appointed to call upon the undertaker in charge, asking why the dead man was not buried properly, when, according to the administrator's report, the sum of $115 was allowed for burial.

The committee included J. A. Colhoun, John W. Wilbur and John Spelman, who will make a report of their findings in the near future. When this committee queried the undertaker he said he had no account of it on his books; he did not remember the case and had nothing to do with it, but said he would investigate it.

Friends who brought the matter of the estate before the post said yesterday that the post will probably frame resolutions for a committee from that organization to appear before the district attorney in regard to the funeral expenses allowed in the administrator's report. The post intends to make a thorough investigation of the matter and will seek to remove the body from the Potter's Field.

ANGLERS IN THEIR GLORY; OPEN SEASON OF ALL FISH

The anglers will be in their glory from now on, as they will be able to indulge in all the styles of fishing that they desire. All of the seasons are open, and the fishing in all branches is getting good.

The sportsman will no longer have to confine himself to whipping the various trout streams for the speckled beauties, silv and black bass; the larger game fish, which abound in the salt waters, are beginning to put in an appearance and will from now on afford the fishermen some great sport. The trout will have to give way in a measure to King Salmon and the hard fighting striped bass.

The trout are plentiful in the mountain streams. The Truckee river still continues to yield nice baskets of fish each day, and the sport was never better on the Upper Sacramento.

The McCloud and Williamson rivers are also furnishing their share of the sport.

WORK HARD FOR PICNIC'S SUCCESS

St. Anthony's Parishioners Plan Monster Program for Admission Day

The annual parish picnic of St. Anthony's church will be held September 9 in Idora Park, where patriotic exercises commemorating the birth of California will be observed. For the past five years the parishioners of St. Anthony's church have held their Admission Day celebration at Idora and just yesterday was the event a success both from a social and financial point of view.

This year the picnic will be superior, it is predicted, to all past affairs. Much enthusiasm is being displayed by parishioners to promote the projects which will make the occasion a memorable one. Rev. Father York is master of the church.

Many interesting diversions have been planned. Among the features will be the Irish dance. Booths, profusely decorated, will be an additional attraction. Mrs. Harry St. Knapp, president of the Catholic Ladies' Aid Society, Branch No. 37, is superintendence of the refreshment booth. She will be assisted by a corps of ladies of the parish.

The sandwich and coffee committee consists of:

Miss Liza C. Miss Ethel Headley
Villett Miss Murphy
Misses Mount Miss M. C. Charles
Misses May, Knott Mrs. J. B. Cauza
Mrs. J. Edwards Mrs. M. J. Roach
Mrs. A. T. Stringer Mrs. P. Egan
Mrs. R. A. Hause Mrs. C. F. White
Misses Halford Miss Genevieve

chairman, secretary
M. J. Kier, Bernard Hanly
Rev. Father Chapman, P. H. Garcia
Rev. Father Yorks, Daniel Malone
treasurer, Andrew Malone
Rev. F. M. M. Hugh Anton Fetz
Rev. James McElroy J. H. Milette

The program of giving all who desire an opportunity to assist the general committee a meeting has been called for Wednesday evening at room 108, California building, Market and McAllister streets.

GAS MEN BEATEN IN LAW COURTS

Los Angeles Judge Overrules the Application for Demurrer in Their Cases

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 14.—Justice Rose today rendered a decision in the demurrers to the complaints charging that officials and employees of the Los Angeles Gas and Electric Company with raising and raising and lowering the price of gas without the consent of the City Council. He announced that he had overruled the demurrers in each of the three cases in which the eight men are charged jointly. The defendants are W. B. Cline, president; William M. Vandaly and William T. Thompson, co-presidents; W. A. Cheney and S. W. Garrison, directors; R. M. Adams, secretary; D. Day, assistant secretary, and A. B. Foreman, collector. Justice Rose set the time for them to appear and enter their pleas at 10 o'clock next Tuesday morning.

Bankers Will Hear Encarnacao. Grand Opera Basso-Cantata

J. S. KILLAM of Committee in Charge of Bankers' Night at Orpheum.

A program of exceptional merit will be given at the Orpheum Theater tomorrow night when the audience will be made up for the greater part of bankers of Alameda county.

The Orpheum management has, as a special concession to the banking men and their friends, added an unusual attraction on the program in the person of Cav. R. A. S. Encarnacao. The well known Portuguese basso cantata will give four selections of grand opera in French, Italian, Spanish and English.

While Cav. Encarnacao alone who is assisted by his own orchestra on a special instrument, is regarded as a rare attraction, without question, the entire program will be the best presented to vanderlye boxes in the past eight months.

Credit for the entertainment, which is the first affair of its kind ever given by the banking interest of the county as a solid body, is due to Oakland Chapter American Institute of Banking, through the efforts of the chapter's sub-committee on constituents, composed of C. Denison of the Oakland Bank of Savings, Mrs. R. Braemer of the Central Bank and John S. Killam of the Union Savings Bank.

Among the audience, which will be composed largely of bank officers, their employees and friends, will be some of the best known financiers in the State. Bank officials from every bank in the county will be in the audience. Tickets can be procured at the box office or from bank employees.

DENIES INTENT TO WATER STOCK

Southern Road's President Represents Attack by Editor of Newspaper

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Aug. 14.—In a letter to the Courier-Journal today, President Miller, H. Smith of the Louisville and Nashville railroad, takes exception to the call of a newspaper writer to commercial boards in Southern states to prosecute suits "to prevent stock watering of the capital stock of the Louisville and Nashville."

Agreeing that this call is predicated upon news dispatches that the railroad has accumulated such a surplus that it proposes to increase the capital from $60,000,000 to $15,000,000 or $100,000,000 and that the present capital stock is "largely water," Smith says:

Makes Denial

"The results of operations of the Louisville and Nashville railroad are matters of public record and it is known to all who have investigated that there is no water in its stock; and there is not the slightest evidence that any one connected with the management of the company has ever considered an increase in the capital stock in the manner indicated."

Smith further cites a reported decrease of $3,000,000 in gross receipts of the road for the fiscal year ending June, 1909, from those during the fiscal year ending June, 1907.

STRIKERS ATTEND FUNERAL IN BODY

Victim of Steel Mill Clash Buried in Pittsburgh—More Trouble Feared

PITTSBURG, Aug. 14.—"Steve" Horvath, a striker killed during an attack on May 1, a negro, at McKees Rocks Thursday, was buried today.

Three thousand strikers from the Prestissi Co. plant in Pittsburgh from Schenley, while the leaders of the strikers stood guard at the works, a rumor that more new men would be taken in the plant during the funeral service.

Notwithstanding the vigilance of the strikers, it is said that 25 additional men were taken into the plant during the day, and the result was the first appearance of the strikers' tents in a body, and fearing trouble the line of march was closely watched by police who restricted the emblems carried in the procession to American flags.

INSTALL NEW TRAIN SERVICE TO CHICAGO

T. A. Riddon, passenger agent of the A. T. & S. F. Ry. Co., has received notice that the Santa Fe Railway Company will inaugurate a new tri-weekly tourist car line between Oakland, San Francisco and Kansas City.

The first car eastbound will leave Oakland September 20, 22, 25, 28, 29, October 1, 6, 9, 11, 13, 16 and 18. This will give Oakland a new train service. This service in connection with the Santa Fe will run three trains per day to Chicago, via the San Joaquin Valley, to be doing all possible to help Oakland.

This service will not mean a decrease of the five trains daily through the San Joaquin Valley.

Remember, you get the MONARCH Malleable Range on thirty days' free trial, and then if it's satisfactory you start paying $1.00 per week. THAT'S FAIR.

MISSION CLUB HAS VERY GOOD BOXING CARD

DOUBLE MAIN EVENT APPEARS MIGHTY ATTRACTIVE TO FANS

Four Fast and Hard Fighting Men Make Up Both Matches--May Have Horse Racing at Emeryville This Winter

By EDDIE SMITH.

THIS night o'gloves that has been arranged by Sidney Hester of the Mission Athletic Club for the bay shore fans this month in San Francisco, has taken a strong hold on the fancy of the boxing fans and it seems the consensus of opinion that the just of events is the correct spelling of the word "right."

Attell is Percy Cove make up the contests and although the first named has come to be recognized as the main event and no doubt is the more important affair of the two, it is really hard to believe the affair anything other than a double main event.

Surely a contest wherein the champion of his class is to appear can hardly be termed a preliminary and this is the case, for Attell is rightfully recognized as the champion of the feather weights.

In the main event two light weights are to meet of whom we have every reason to expect some fire works. Frayne is just standing on the brink of pugilistic success, and he can be depended upon to make the fight of his career. Hyland has been showing here and has each time given us a battle that was honest and hard fought. He has been accused of playing along at a slow gait that was rather uninteresting. In the Clegg-4-round battle, but in the Nelson fight he held to his work like a major and set as fast a pace as nature would stand of any human being.

In the contest of next Friday Dick realizes that he must set a fast clip and that he must beat at his work from the first to the last tap of the bell to get the decision, if the contest should go to limit, and instead of training for lasting power alone, as he did in his two previous contests, he is trying to improve his speed.

EDDIE SMITH.

Hyland Promises Fast Pace

When appearing in the short bouts around New York City the game little Cornishman was looked upon as a lightning striker, he used to clean right into the thickness of the milling and crowd the light weight who will be likened only to a sprinter doing a 100-yard dash this time out, and both he and his manager expect to win inside of the twenty rounds allotted them.

Frayne, with renewed confidence as to his hitting power, will try to score a clean-cut victory and with his already established reputation for cleverness he should make the going mighty interesting. If Frayne should win from Hyland in quicker time the Nelson did it would put him right in line for a match with the Dandy and when he said the other day, "Can you imagine how I'm going to try to win this battle with such a goal to try for?" there was a certain ring of determination to his voice that seemed to foretell a very determined battle.

Cove May Prove Surprise

When the match between Percy Cove and Monte Attell was first made some few of the boxing fans who do not keep posted on the out of town fighters asked as to the identity of the Cove boy. Since Percy started training at Freeman's Park he has made some impression on the fans, however, and the little side whispers that have been going the rounds about the spicier would indicate that the supposed wisemen expect a surprise when the pair come together.

The latest story that is being told about the elongated fighter from Seattle is to the effect that he has been handling Jockey Bennett like a boxing instructor giving a pupil a lesson in boxing. If this be true, then Cove is some artist with the gloves and we can expect some fun when this pair hook up.

Cove stands 5 feet 11 inches in height and is able to make 115 pounds. Percy will prove some freaks and if he is able to fight better than the name will imply he will have little trouble in getting on about the bay cities.

Attell is a workman of the most finished type, and he is the one man of the fighting Attells who never disappoints a fight crowd. The boxing will be held at the Coliseum and this is also welcome news, for it is far and away more comfortable than the pavilion in which the recent San Francisco contests have been held.

May Have Racing Here

The lovers of fast running horses and the boys who like to lay a bet once in awhile are beginning to look up a bit, for it is now confidently expected that there will be racing here this winter and that it will be held at the far-famed Emeryville track.

During the past few weeks we have been assured by several of the leading horsemen who have made their winters pleasant, as well as profitable, by racing here that they are making preparations to have some time this winter. The officials of the Pacific Coast Jockey Club are particularly silent. The officials of the Olympic Club are also welcome news, for it is far and away more comfortable than the pavilion in which the recent San Francisco contests have been held.

Becoming More Confident

Now, why should he be so very considerate of the track if he does not intend to use the track this winter? The smaller stockholders in the corporation claim to know nothing of the intentions of the President Williams and express as much anxiety as the fancier of the racing game.

It has been given out that the meets held throughout the East under the new system have proven fairly successful and this of course has had the desired effect on the California racing men. Besides this it is a well known fact that several of the best attorneys in the State have been spending a good deal of their time in trying to find some defect in the new law and perhaps they may have discovered some weak place that they believe can be brought out invalidating the law at all.

At any rate, it is confidently expected that racing will be held at Emeryville this winter and the boys are consequently very happy. If the verbal betting that is being indulged in at New York is used there will be a very powerful organization gotten up to protect the bookies against welchers. Just what arrangements have been made along this line there is no telling, but it has been hinted that it will prove the real thing from the protection standpoint. Suffice it to say, however, there will be some running races here this winter and each day brings brighter to the hearts of the horse fancier.

TEAM OF SEATTLE ATHLETIC CLUB WINS BIG MEET, OLYMPIC SECOND

Ralph Rose, Healdsburg Giant, Hero of the Day; Broke the World's Record and Scored Twenty-One Points

SEATTLE, Wash., Aug. 14.—The team of the Seattle Athletic Club proved winners of the annual National championships held on the track at the Alaska-Yukon-Pacific Exposition this afternoon.

Seattle took all three places in the 100-yard dash, the only outsider to qualify for the final being Hamilton of the Chicago Athletic Association. In the 220-yard dash, Dawbarn of New York won his heat in 22 seconds flat and then captured the final in 21.4 seconds.

McBride, who won the 100 yards, took second place, and Gerhardt, the Olympic Club sprinter, ran third in the final of this event.

Lindberg of Chicago took the quarter-mile event, in which Gish of Seattle took second and McEntee of New York third. The New Yorkers were disappointed at the showing of McEntee, whom they had figured a winner in this race.

Edmundson, the University of Idaho middle-distance runner who was competing for the Seattle Athletic Club, ran a record heat in the half mile.

He ran a special record and finished in remarkable time of 1:55.1-6, which, although outside of Kilpatrick's long standing mark, is the fastest time made in a number of years by anyone except the record holder, who is still unbroken.

Ralph Rose, the Olympic Club sprinter, won handily from Glessing, the New York Athletic Club's crack, who finished second, and John O. Miller, winner of the half mile at the last Western Conference meet, and a member of the Olympic Club's team.

McLean, Indian, Wins

One of the sensations of the day was the defeat of Fred Eddars of New York, five-mile champion of last year, by Harry McLoch, the young Indian runner from Phoenix, Ariz. McLoch received an ovation when he breached the tape and became the five-mile champion of the United States.

Ralph Rose finally succeeded in putting the shot over fifty feet. Many times he had the record holder beaten but up to today he could never hurl the sphere that far in competition. His pro paled him an easy winner and the young California kept right on putting points. He was beaten in the hammer throw and 56-pound weight by Lee Talbot, the Cornell athlete, competing in the colors of the Kansas City Athletic Club, who made a good record of points himself. Besides winning the hammer throw and 56-pound weight, Talbot was third in the discus and Javelin.

Rose threw the Javelin 141 feet 6 inches, setting a mark of 141 feet which he beat by Oshkosh yesterday in the Junior championships. Gish could not do as well today and had to be content with second place to Rose. Alfred D. Pyle of San Francisco was third with the hammer.

Ballard Best in Mile

In the mile run Ballard of Boston, who won the junior championship yesterday, again proved a winner. His time was slower in the junior events 1:40-15.

Given Surprise
By Friends of Neighborhood

MRS. EDWARD A. ELLIS
Of Melrose.
—Bell-Oudry Photo.

MELROSE, Aug. 14.—A delightful surprise party was tendered to Mrs. E. A. Ellis at her home on Forty-sixth avenue, Melrose, by a number of her friends headed by Mrs. C. M. Porter and Mrs. L. Castner.

Shortly after 9 o'clock last night a large number of Mrs. Ellis' friends gathered at the home of Mrs. Porter and then went in a body to the home of Mrs. Ellis, where that lady was completely taken aback by the crisis of "surprise."

Music and refreshments helped to pass away a delightful evening.

Among those present were Mrs. Frank Quiner, Mrs. John Ives, Mrs. Charles Johnson, Mrs. Smith, Messrs. S. Dalton, John Ives, Frank Quiner and Charles M. Porter.

MASTER ORGANIST TO PERFORM HERE

Prof. F. Dunkley Will Play at Entertainment in First Baptist Church

An organ recital will be given in the parlor of the First Baptist Church, Telegraph avenue and Jones street, Thursday evening, by Ferdinand Dunkley, under the auspices of the Young People's Society of the church.

Prof. Dunkley has played on the largest organs in America and is a gifted organist. He will be assisted in the recital by Miss May Gilmour, soprano soloist; L. Hall, tenor; and Mrs. W. J. Cook, accompanist.

The following program will be rendered:

Fantasia in G Minor, Brahms; Chanson d'Ète, Lemaitre; Capriccio, Lemaigre; Allegro Cantabile; Toccata (from fifth symphony), Widor; solo by Miss May Gilmour; selected to act III of Lohengrin, Wagner, solo by Mr. Philip C. Hall; "If With All Your Heart Ye Seek Me," from the Eliot; Prelude to Tannhäuser, Wagner; march; music from "Die Walküre," Wagner.

During the intermission a voluntary silver offering will be taken for the benefit of the building fund. The Young People's Society is endeavoring to meet its pledge of $1,000 toward this fund.

ST. MARY'S MISSION
OPENS FOR TWO WEEKS

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 14.—Tomorrow morning a two weeks' mission will open at St. Mary's Church. Father Doyle will conduct the mission, assisted by the Rev. Fathers Oliver, Welch and James P. Tower.

Father Doyle's first visit to San Francisco in seven years. His last trip was made on the occasion of the golden jubilee of the Sisters of Mercy, of which order his sister is a member. He preached the jubilee sermon at that time.

The mission will open tomorrow morning at the 11 o'clock mass. The second week will be devoted particularly to non-Catholics. The morning services will be at 6 and 9 o'clock. There will be special services daily at noon.

STRIKEBREAKERS WORK
UNDER ARMED GUARD

FORT WILLIAMS, Ont., Aug. 14.—Fifty strikebreakers who arrived here from the U. S. last night started unloading boats in the military protection at the Canadian Pacific docks today. The Royal Canadian mounted rifles are still patrolling the streets.

It is now asserted that thirty strikers were wounded in Wednesday's fight. The minister of labor is expected tomorrow morning, when an attempt is to be made to arrive at a basis of settlement between the Canadian Pacific railway and the striking dock men.

EASY TERMS.

Don't stay away from this sale on account of ready money. We will make terms to suit your convenience. Think of buying a piano on as little payments as $4 a month, which only means 264 a day. This amount put aside not only gives you the use of a beautiful piano, but in a short time you will have paid for it and have not missed the payments.

In addition to this you absolutely get a piano at less than wholesale cost. By calling at our waterrooms early you of course will secure the best selection, and remember it costs nothing to investigate. Never before have such prices and terms been made on such a large and complete stock of high grade pianos. If you live out of the city and cannot arrange to call at our waterrooms write us for our special bargains.

NOT FORGOT.

Every piano sold by us during this special sale which we are now holding is sold under the "Ellers unconditional guarantee," which means money refunded if piano is not exactly as represented. Each piano sold includes free delivery with stool. To accommodate those that cannot call during the day we will keep our store open evenings until 9 p. m.

DON'T DELAY: ACT AT ONCE.
